Victoria 'Winter' Short-Lived—So Far

Linda, 5, and Sandra, 3, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lalonde, Island Highway were out on the lawn at 6.30 to play in snow this morning. Even so, they scarcely found enough of the cold white stuff to throw around satisfactorily. About half-inch fell Tuesday night and

BASIS OF SCHOOL FORMULA

B.C. to Pay Wages Plus $3 Per Pupil

A cabinet order-in-council today made law a system of school grants which spell out the B.C. government's new school formula.

The order provides:
1. A school grant system which will pay the entire teacher wage bill up to a certain standard schedule, plus a $3 per pupil annual grant to cover other costs.
2. That the government will receive in return 10 mills from urban communities and 7 mills from rural areas, on each dollar of assessment value. These amounts will presumably be deducted from the total school grant paid to each municipality.

It means an automatic wage increase next year for teachers in some 30 of B.C.'s 80 school districts where wages are not up to the government schedule. The new standard schedule, introduced by Education Minister Ray Williston, shows upward revisions in every classification of the old grant scale. The previous scale was based on teachers' wages in 1946.

If school districts want to pay more than the new wage scale, they will have to bear the excess costs. Mr. Williston said the government will grant each school district the full amount shown on the scale, or the total of actual salaries if less than the listed amount.

MUST NEGOTIATE

In 30 districts teachers are receiving less than the amount shown on the new schedule. They must still negotiate with school boards for the amount below the new scale. The scale boosts the grant

CBC Wage Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CIO-CCL), threatening a strike to enforce contract demands, today resumed deadlocked negotiations.

Mother Saves Family

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A Vancouver woman saved her four children when fire struck their home early today in freezing temperatures. Mrs. Dorothy McInnes woke up smelling smoke and immediately roused the children, Coleen, 15; Carol, 12; Marilyn, 8, and Robert, 5.

NEHRU ADVISES CHINA COOL OFF, DON'T GRAB

LONDON (UP)—India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today pinned his hopes for peaceful solution of the Formosa crisis to an "informal approach," after the "excitement dies down." He also advised China against any attempt to grab Formosa by force.

Nehru, the key figure of side-street manoeuvring here to find a formula to end the Formosa shooting, said he doubted Tuesday's dramatic government shifts in Moscow would alter the atmosphere or bring a change in Soviet foreign policy.

Until Tuesday Nehru had been reported concentrating on efforts to arrange a "Geneva-type" conference, outside the UN. But diplomatic observers here said that possibility apparently went out the window along with toppled Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov.

Rejection of UN Bid Mao's Major Blunder?

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(Editor, Victoria Daily Times)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Behind the chaotic surface of the crisis in Formosa stand two basic and extraordinary facts.

On the one hand, the Communist government of China is acting in obvious ignorance and probable stupidity.

On the other, the British government, backed by all or most of the Commonwealth, is acting with unequalled knowledge and ancient wisdom. It may be said, indeed, that the issue of war or peace in Asia will hang on this contest between ignorant stupidity and informed knowledge.

Communist China was obviously winning a great diplomatic victory until a few days ago. It had forced Chiang Kai-shek to agree to the evacuation of the Tachen Islands because the United States would not defend them. It had forced the United Nations to invite it to meet the Security Council and to recognize it in fact if not in name as a great power. Finally China was making highly satisfactory progress in the supreme Communist objective of dividing the free world alliance.

If Peiping had paused there, if it had agreed to confer with the United Nations Security Council on a cease-fire, it could have soon secured the other offshore islands without danger of a large-scale war.

AFL, CIO Become One Giant Union

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—A waterfront crowd awaiting the arrival of Princess Margaret here in "Little England" today was moved by police, some with nightsticks, as they pressed forward in an excess of enthusiasm. As the crowd crushed against a low wall some women had their clothing torn. One woman lost her skirt. One man, hopping up and down on the fringe of the crowd, hopped off the end of the dock and into the water 10 feet below. He was fished out to rejoin the celebration. Order was quickly restored, and as the Princess stepped ashore she was greeted with a tumultuous cheer.

Ike's Friend Named Chief Of Red Army

Zhukov, Berlin Battle Hero, Impressed President in War

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi K. Zhukov, top Soviet military hero and a warm wartime acquaintance of President Eisenhower, was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union today.

Immediately after the announcement, the Supreme Soviet parliament was informed that Georgi M. Malenkov, who resigned Tuesday as premier, has been named a deputy premier and minister of power stations.

Both nominations were made by the new premier, Nikolai A. Bulganin, until Tuesday the defense minister. A marshal, Bulganin wore his army uniform at today's meeting of this momentous Supreme Soviet session.

Marshal Zhukov is mentioned in friendly way, many times in President Eisenhower's book, "Crusade in Europe."

The two generals met in Berlin at the end of the war and later exchanged governmental decorations in Germany. The president suggested then—and is believed to have repeated since—that his wartime friend might be more friendly to the United States although he is a "firm believer in the Communist concept."

"So far as the friendly association between Marshal Zhukov and myself was concerned, it continued to grow until the moment I left Europe in November, 1945," Mr. Eisenhower wrote in 1948. "That friendship was a personal and individual thing and unfortunately was not representative of the general attitude."

BUILD ARMED MIGHT

Bulganin, in his first speech as premier, pledged his government to work to expand the Soviet Union's heavy industry in order to build up armed might and raise the country's living standards.

The appointments of Malenkov and Zhukov were unanimously approved by a show of hands of the 1,300-member parliament's joint session.

Today's sessions spotlighted another outstanding war hero, Marshal Ivan Konev, who headed the tribunal that sentenced secret police chief L. P. Beria to death in December, 1953. In an address to the cheering parliament, he asserted that the U.S.S.R.'s armed forces have "all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of aggressors."

Zhukov's appointment to the defense ministry is another step in a profound government shakeup which underscores the powerful influence of Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary—and boss—of the Communist party. Zhukov has been a first deputy minister of defense. He has attained great prominence since the death of Stalin, after a period in virtual eclipse after the Second World War.

KNOWN AND RESPECTED

Committees Representing 15 Million Agree on Pact

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

MIAMI BEACH—AFL and CIO leaders "proudly and unanimously" agreed today to carry out a historic merger of the two labor organizations.

This afternoon AFL president George Meany and CIO head Walter Reuther signed the merger agreement to "realize a long-cherished goal."

Under the terms of the agreement, the two top officers would come from the AFL. Members of the 20-man joint unity committee conceded the presidency to Meany.

Meany predicted the merger would be approved by conventions of both bodies and then by a joint convention before the end of the year.

"We will go into 1956 with a united labor movement," Meany said.

COMMITTEES ACT

The agreement to end the 20-year-old split within organized labor was reached by two three-member sub-committees representing the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The AFL's executive council will pass on the amalgamation at a meeting here Thursday.

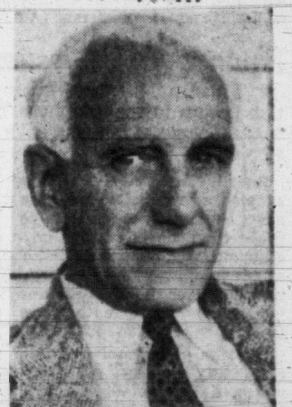

APPROVAL CERTAIN

Ratifying conventions of both the AFL and CIO unions will be required to put the merger into effect, but the agreement reached by AFL president George Meany and CIO chief Walter Reuther seems sure to win approval of their organizations.

Welding of the 10,000,000-member AFL and the 5,000,000-member CIO would represent culmination of two years of effort by Meany and Reuther since they became top men in their respective groups in late 1952.

TLC, CCL to Follow Lead of U.S. Unions?

By AB KENT
Times Labor Reporter

Merger of the multi-million membership American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations announced in Miami, Florida, today was greeted enthusiastically by Victoria labor leaders.

Secretary of Victoria Labor Council Ed Haw (also financial secretary of IWA Local 1-118) commented:

"Speaking as a member of Victoria Labor Council, I am very happy to see the merger of the CIO and AFL."

His remark was echoed by A. Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

GOOD MOVE

"Undoubtedly a good move," he said, but declined further comment until he heard further details.

"We've all been looking forward to this day," said Vic Midgley, local representative of the carpenters' international union. Most spokesmen agreed that the two Canadian labor movements affiliated with AFL and CIO—namely, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and Canadian Congress of Labor—would soon make a similar move to unite.

ON RECORD

The CIO is definitely industrial in character, while the AFL is composed largely of craftsmen.

Both TLC unions and CCL affiliates are on record as being in favor of working toward unity of their 1,000,000 total membership, including those affiliated with AFL and CIO.

Jack MacKenzie, president of local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America (CCL-CIO), said:

"We are glad to see it beginning to take shape. Organized labor will now be in a position to make a concerted effort toward improving labor conditions in North America."

"However," he said, "there are a considerable number of problems to be worked out."

NOT BINDING

Mr. Haw mentioned the IWA international convention of 1953 endorsed organic unity of CIO and AFL, but this did not bind Canadian districts of the IWA.

Charles Peck, electrical workers' business agent, and former president of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, said: "We have had resolutions from the TLC suggesting merger for years. We hope the TLC and CCL can get together now."

He mentioned the chief difficulty of jurisdiction which would have to be resolved.

Mr. Midgley said international unions would be required to ratify the merger, and "if they don't agree with the policy, then they will have to get out, I guess."

"Merger will be a benefit to all the workers, giving us greater bargaining strength," he said.

IN PARLIAMENT

Committee on Capital Punishment to Hear Prisoners' Testimony

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

The parliamentary committee on capital and corporal punishment decided Tuesday to hear evidence from prisoners who have received the lash or paddle.

However, the 27-member committee reached no agreement as to how the evidence will be obtained.

It rejected a suggestion by Harold Winch (C.P. Vancouver East) that a sub-committee of a special investigator be appointed to obtain from past and present prisoners evidence "on the deterrent value and other effects" of such punishment. Members felt they should not delegate their powers.

The Commons-Senate committee also deferred discussion on the question of having Canada's lone executioner appear before it to testify on capital punishment.

Vital to Hear Reactions—Winch

Mr. Winch said it is vital that the committee hear reactions of those who have undergone corporal punishment in Canadian jails and penitentiaries.

The cat-o-nine-tails, the strap and the paddle are the three main means of giving corporal punishment, either as part of a sentence passed by a judge or as a method of enforcing prison discipline.

Mr. Winch said he interviewed 11 prisoners who had undergone corporal punishment at the British Columbia penitentiary in New Westminster and was told they did not regard whipping as a deterrent to crime. Prisoners had told him they would prefer to receive the lash than to serve long sentences.

Senator Nancy Hodges (L. British Columbia) and Ann Shipley (L. Timiskaming) said they doubt that the views of prisoners would be of any value.

The committee eventually agreed 11 to 5 on a show of hands to hear evidence from persons who have undergone corporal punishment. Then it agreed unanimously to let the steering sub-committee recommend a method whereby the information could be obtained.

Finance Minister Walter Harris challenged opposition groups in the Commons Tuesday night to find a way to cut down the government's new spending bill of nearly $5,000,000,000.

Shortly before the House adopted a proposal to set up a new estimates committee to probe the budgets of four government departments, Harris said it was always open to members on either the opposition or the government side to move for a cut in any appropriation.

"If (the opposition) can find a new way of reducing the estimates, I shall be very happy," Harris said.

He recalled that former air minister, C. G. Power (L. Quebec South), after he retired from the government, managed to cut out a proposed government appropriation. E. D. Fulton (P.C. Kamloops) said that four years ago he tried to do the same thing but the government forced a vote of confidence on the issue.

Harris said the opposition always had the right to try to trim government spending, and the government always had the right to defend its proposed spending budget. He said he was particularly anxious that the new committee give thorough study to the immigration department's administration. Harris was immigration minister before he took over his present job last July.

Harris said opposition leader George Drew had been demanding a royal commission investigation into the department's operations, but the government decided the study should be made in the new estimates committee.

The new committee also will study the finance, veterans' affairs, and northern affairs and national resources departments. The four departments will spend about a quarter of the 1955-56 budget.

Mr. Harris said a "false opinion" has developed in Canada that large sums are voted by the house during the dying days of the session.

Despite all the work done by committees during and since the Second World War, he said, "none of the committees turned up anything which was really detrimental to the manner in which the government had been spending the public money."

There were cries of "oh, oh" from the opposition benches.

A government resolution to establish the committee was adopted unanimously after members spent most of the sitting discussing how the committee should operate. Mr. Harris later explained that the estimates committee will have no power to call for witnesses and documents. Some House committees have such power.

Party Elders Ignited USSR Painless Purge

Molotov-Keyed Control Seen in Kremlin Shake-Up

By W. A. RYSER
Written for United Press

LONDON (UP)—Five words of Communist Party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev gave a strong clue today that Russia already has followed up the dismissal of Georgi M. Malenkov with a far-reaching government reorganization and a seemingly painless purge.

Khrushchev, powerful first secretary of the party, disclosed the existence of a new body inside the Kremlin and its very name, hinted at the ascendant role of foreign minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

Khrushchev said yesterday he was instructed to nominate Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin by "the central committee of the CPSU Communist Party of the Soviet Union" and the council of elders.

"And the council of elders"—these five words unveiled an organization that western experts said had never been mentioned previously in Moscow's government set-up.

Its members were not identified. For the moment Russia apparently was determined to cover up the extent of the shake-up given to the rest of the Kremlin rulers by Malenkov's resignation.

Khrushchev did not speak of the council again, nor did Molotov in his long foreign affairs speech.

But preliminary western estimates of Khrushchev's bland disclosure were that the existence of the "Council of Elders" paved the way for silently and painlessly superseding left-over leaders now that Malenkov's star had set.

Western observers who already had considered Molotov's hand to be behind the Bulganin promotion pointed out that nobody in the Kremlin is more "elder" in the hierarchy than Molotov.

He joined the Communist party in 1906 and was Russia's premier in the decade before Stalin.

Experts said the "Council of Elders" may be a reborn politburo, the former ruling inner circle of the Communist party. It was replaced by an enlarged presidium of the party after the 19th party congress in October, 1952.

There was speculation this new council had replaced the presidium—and in the replacement lay a simple path to quietly dropping government officials whose stock fell with Malenkov's.

This, observers said, fits in with the long campaign for "collective leadership" championed by Malenkov. But if the "Council of Elders" includes only the oldest and most distinguished Communist leaders, as its name indicates, then it would be a victory for the old Stalinists led by Molotov.

Observers also did not rule out the possibility of further strains developing in the Kremlin. Perhaps they could be as serious as those which only a firing squad repaid when secret police chief Lavrenti P. Beria was purged in 1953.

Presently there are about 18 CWACs in administrative work. Officers announced Tuesday that women would be taken on for training in operational duties such as searchlight manning signals and medical work. Up to now, CWAC personnel have been permitted only in administration.

Major Neil Stewart of 25 Medical Company said his unit could use 19 CWAC recruits, in addition to more male trainees.

Need for militia recruits will soon be emphasized when permanent force recruiting units take over additional duties of signing up militiamen.

Brigadier George Kitching, B.C. area commander who inspected the armory Tuesday, said the militia needed more men.

It was the brigadier's first visit to units of 25 Militia Group since his appointment as area commander January 2. He said all reserve units he had seen so far in B.C. were on a high level of efficiency.

Vancouver, however, he thought to be ahead of other communities in the province for "smart units."

Brigadier Kitching inspected parades of 119th MAA Battery and 4th LAA Battery at Work Point this morning. It was also his first official visit to the active army garrison.

With the recruiting drive for young men will be a call for young women to serve with units of 25 Militia Group as CWAC personnel.

Bullet That Paralyzed Woman May Be Link in Priest-Killing

MONTREAL (BUP)—Police hoped today to extract a bullet from the paralyzed body of a 33-year-old woman, linking the gun which wounded her to the one which killed a priest near Brandon, Man., last month.

Mrs. Ovide Grenier lay in Notre Dame Hospital with at least one bullet lodged between her hip and spine. Police said they believed the gun which fired that bullet Oct. 4 when she resisted a purse-snatcher was the same one used to kill Rev. Alfred Quirion.

The woman, whose condition was described as serious, may be operated on later. Police said they hoped ballistics tests would show that the bullet in Mrs. Grenier's body came from the same gun used by three Montreal hitch-hikers to kill Quirion.

They advanced their theory after arresting an unidentified 17-year-old youth, who appeared in social welfare court here Tuesday. The court will decide whether he should be sent to a higher tribunal to face attempted murder and purse-snatching charges.

Police said the youngster stole the revolver from the home of Const. Albert Doucet, of the Quebec Provincial Police. Later, they said, the gun was used by the youth when he struggled to take Mrs. Grenier's purse as she alighted from a street car last October.

Also mentioned by The Telegram as possible bidders are Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Kemsley and Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees baseball club.

Will There Be Game In Butler's Pantry

By TONY DICKASON

A chap named Frank Butler is to direct B.C.'s game commission, the Legislature heard Tuesday.

We predict, and with confidence, Mr. Butler will have trouble keeping the animals out of his pantry. This is a frank prediction. There has been game in butlers' pantries for generations.

It's always best to lead off a column with a wee mite of trivia like this, before getting down to the good solid trivia. Then you have the reader hooked, the learned say.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner gave the information concerning Mr. Butler in his customary hypnotic style which tends to relax public gallery observers. Lesser people sometimes even yawn and scratch. Debate this sitting did not have the fire of previous sessions, he said, taking a thoughtful sip of water at the recollection.

Then he continued to say

Mr. Gibbs Enchants Mr. Bonner

The AG (people around the Legislature call the attorney-general the "AG") for reasons probably quite clear said Oak Bay Liberal MLA Archie Gibbs held him "entranced."

Mr. Gibbs, who speaks on matters of money for the Liberals, gave a rattling, interesting talk Monday. But Mr. Bonner said his technique "almost defies struggling with—a hypothetical situation and erroneous conclusions, and I can't treat it with the solemnity it deserves."

Mr. Gibbs, who tackled the touching tax situation, just leaned back in his chair and grinned.

Mr. Bonner said on narcotics addicts that he didn't believe in giving them dope to ease the present impasse on drugs on this coast. What should be done was to relieve the mental condition of "hypes," only he didn't say "hypes," nor did he say how

B.C. in Centre of Great Continental Struggle For Hydroelectric Power

Provincial Development Hub of Struggle Between Ottawa, Washington for Power

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(Editor, Victoria Daily Times)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—British Columbia and its government stand in the centre of a continental struggle for hydro-electric power.

The proposed Arrow Lake Dam, important in itself, is much more important as a test of Canada's resistance to American power interests.

That particular test has been passed—the Arrow Lake dam will not be built, at least under the contract proposed by the Bennett Government. The United States knows now that this scheme is dead, that the power interests of Washington State have suffered a complete reverse.

But what of the future? How, in brief, are the power potentialities of the huge Columbia and Fraser River systems to be divided between Canada and the United States?

No Local Affair

Probably the Bennett Government doesn't know it yet, but this local issue in Victoria has become a national issue in Washington. Obviously the State Department knows more about this subject than Mr. Bennett's ministers.

Mr. Bennett's ministers, knows it in every detail and understands its continental significance. Also it understands why the Canadian Government, overruling Mr. Bennett, is determined to preserve a maximum output of electricity on the Columbia and elsewhere solely for Canadian use.

In British Columbia we tend to think of the Arrow Lake controversy as a local affair. The Bennett Government thinks of it as an affair which can and should be settled locally without regard to national policy. In fact, it is an affair which cannot be settled at anything lower than the highest level between Ottawa and Washington.

When the Bennett government agreed to let the Kaiser aluminum interests dam Arrow Lake and use the stored water to produce electricity south of the border, and when Ottawa intervened to quash this scheme, the American government came under heavy pressure from big business interests in Washington State.

These interests supposed that the American government would be surprised and angered by Ottawa's decision and would object to it. Nothing of the sort occurred, for the simple reason that Washington understands Canada's power policy much better than it is understood by most Canadians.

That policy, since the nineteen-twenties, has been to prohibit the export of power, except in unavoidable local circumstances, or the equivalent of power in the form of water.

Ont. Problem

Before the First World War Ontario had signed contracts binding it to deliver large quantities of power to the United States. During the war boom Ontario wished it had this power for itself and as soon as the contracts reached the end of their legal term the Ontario government attempted to end them.

It found, however, that it could never end them. It had the legal right to do so but in practical politics cancellation was impossible.

Large American industries and communities had been built on Ontario power. If the switch were pulled in Canada these interests would be ruined. The United States government stepped into the controversy and warned Canada that a ban on these exports would be something like an unfriendly act between nations. So inevitably the contracts were renewed.

Meanwhile, Mr. Mackenzie King had come to office and, studying the whole problem presented by Canada's need of power, laid down an almost inflexible policy—the old contracts would stand but no more power would be exported unless there was some peculiar local reason for it.

Also, if water were stored in Canada and then fed through American turbines south of the boundary, Canada would accept payment not in cash but in a share of this power.

In short, Canada wanted all the power it could get for itself, on the wise assumption that it would need this fuel for its future industry.

It was into the middle of this conservation policy that the Bennett government floundered, without warning, in the case of the Arrow Lake dam. It proposed to let an American company store Columbia water which now runs, wasted, to the sea through Washington and Oregon.

If that project proved practical Canada would store Columbia water which now runs, wasted, to the sea through Washington and Oregon.

The most spectacular possibility to be investigated is the proposed junction of the Columbia and the Thompson in the neighborhood of Revelstoke.

For the next two years, therefore, the further exploitation of the Columbia system will be stalled while Canadian government engineers complete their studies.

The United States government thoroughly appreciates Canada's general power policy, doesn't like it much, naturally, but has no intention of questioning it, despite the protests of Washington power interests. But the junction of the Columbia and Fraser systems would be another matter entirely in Canadian-American politics.

True enough, Canada would not reduce the amount of water presently used by American power plants south of the border. It would only divert water now wasted. But this wasted energy is what the United States wants to possess, either as water or as power made in Canada and exported. In congressional politics a physical union of the Columbia and Fraser certainly would be made to appear as a Canadian attempt to alter the laws of nature and steal part of a great American river.

Thus while the controversy produced by the Arrow Lake dam scheme has died down and probably will remain quiet for a couple of years, a much larger controversy may well lie ahead.

For the basic fact underlying all the disputes between Washington, Ottawa and Victoria is now emerging—the United States has tapped most of its own hydro power, its economy and its appetite for power are growing rapidly and, looking north, it would like to harness the abundant power of Canada; in other words, to tap Canada's most valuable capital asset.

As Washington now knows, the present Canadian government and doubtless its successors will not agree to the export of that asset which, once gone, can never be recovered, as Ontario found to its sorrow.

RELIEF PROMISED For Arthritic and Rheumatic Pain

New relief without pills by greaseless, odourless, stainless cream.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. Science has now developed a cream that acts in a new way to bring relief from arthritic, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains. Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB," this new odourless and greaseless cream relieves these pains without the need of pills and other internal medicines.

InfraRUB does not merely set up a surface irritation but penetrates the "skin barrier"—goes to work to relieve pain deep down in muscles and joints. The bloodstream carries the soothing medication right to the seat of trouble where it actually helps drive away pain—causing congestion and pressure.

Another feature of InfraRUB that appeals to so many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage. InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

Written medical reports on the success of this new help for patients suffering from rheumatic and arthritic pains and general muscular aches and pains have been prepared, based on hundreds of cases in British and French hospitals. InfraRUB users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Now for the first time, InfraRUB can be obtained without a prescription from your local drug store for only $1.39. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give hours of comforting relief from arthritic, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains or your money refunded in full.

Changes in the Kremlin

MOST WESTERNERS ARE FAMILIAR enough with Russia to assume that yesterday's change in command probably does not mean what it seems to mean.

On the basis of early Soviet announcements, Premier Georgi Malenkov has stepped down because he has been unable to meet production objectives in industry and agriculture. Marshal Bulganin, defense minister, has moved up to take his place. In the background stands Nikita Khrushchev, presumably the power behind the office.

The assumption might be that Bulganin's ascendancy, coupled with a renewed emphasis on heavy industry in Russia, bespeaks more warlike preparations. Supporting that thesis is the critical Formosa issue which, at this writing, finds Russia's ally, Premier Chou En-lai, committed to a position just short of war.

From this set of facts a definite conclusion might be drawn were it not for one important consideration: It looks too obvious.

The China issue has been used in recent days for a stepped-up Russian propaganda barrage against United States "aggression." That has been followed by Russian claims of startling developments in the USSR's production of nuclear weapons. In international conference rooms, disturbed by the uncertainties growing out of U.S. China policy, the Russians have been pouring gasoline on what they consider smoldering embers.

Against this highly inflammable background, one cardinal point stands out. Scientists have given ample warning that the outbreak of another world war could constitute global suicide. Their words can be heard by the Soviets as well as by the west.

Conceivably the Russian line is to be changed from that typified by the Malenkov peace dove. That need not necessarily vary the pattern of co-existence—which in Russian strategy is not an interlude of peace. Co-existence, according to the latest USSR textbook on political economy placed in circulation last September, is seen by the Kremlin as a time of mutual hostility.

Nor did the Malenkov pattern rule out Communist expansion. Rather was it disguised under a cloak of gradualism.

Another basic concept is shown in the textbook. That is the continuing Kremlin belief that conflicts will develop among the capitalistic states as they bid for power in the quest for diminishing markets—diminishing because many potential customers have fallen to Communism.

These are items from the textbook whose preparation bridged the period from Stalin's regime to that of Malenkov. Changes in the Kremlin need not alter them. And while Mr. Molotov has seized the opportunity to proclaim Russia's pre-eminence in the production of nuclear weapons as well as to renew his vocal assaults on the United States, the note of belligerency is modified by certain definite considerations.

First of these is the reasonable implication that yesterday's developments reflect trouble within the Kremlin itself. The two strong men, Khrushchev and Molotov, are still standing in the wings. As ex-premier Mendes-France put it, "There is also government instability in the Soviet Union."

Second is the report from Paris of overtures by Mr. Molotov for an international conference on Formosa.

New Role for College

VICTORIA COLLEGE will enter a new field of importance under the bill now before the Provincial Legislature. Integration with the University of British Columbia will be made closer and its position in the new teacher training scheme will be clearly defined.

The change, when it is made, will represent the accomplishment of a plan draughted under the previous administration to encourage higher qualifications for teachers.

From all points of view the arrangement seems highly satisfactory.

Municipal taxpayers of the Greater Victoria region will benefit to the extent of from $20,000 to $35,000 a year. These sums represent the spread in annual costs to the Greater Victoria School Board of maintaining the College. Henceforth the funds will come from the province.

But if the community is escaping the costs it formerly shouldered for the College, it will still retain a substantial measure of local control over the institution. This will be accomplished through the College council, an appointed body to which two members will be named by Lieutenant-Governor in Council, two by the school board and two by the Governors of the U.B.C. In each case the appointees will be Vancouver Island residents. Others on the board will be the College principal, the president, dean of arts and dean of education of the university, and the municipal school inspector of Victoria.

Courses of study, including liberal arts, will remain under the jurisdiction of the university, as they have been since Victoria College established its affiliation with the provincial institution.

The major change in curriculum will concern teacher training subjects, carried out under the direction of the university's College of Education.

This is a development envisioned for several years by educationists in the province. In effect it gives the high school student the opportunity to make teacher training count toward a degree in education. Credits from the Normal School by themselves have not carried that value.

The plan, in broad concept, aims at higher qualification for teachers. This, in turn, will raise their professional standing and work to the benefit of schools where they teach.

Because of the immediate need for teachers in British Columbia, the plan will not necessarily impede the flow of high school graduates into elementary teaching jobs after relatively short training, but the emphasis will be placed on more fully trained personnel for the profession as a whole.

The plan will not go into full operation until the College of Education has been established at the University of British Columbia a year from next September. However, some experimental work will be carried on in College-Normal integration here starting next September.

At a time when some Canadian provinces are resorting to quick expedients to turn out more elementary school teachers faster, the B.C. project establishes itself as an important development in the nation's educational field.

Open to the Point of Blankness

LAST WEEK REPORTERS WERE invited to attend, and did attend, part of the city's public works committee meeting. The invitation was extended to them to prove that there was no secrecy at the City Hall.

While they were present letters were read. No debate was countenanced, no discussion was allowed.

There were occasions on which Alderman Don Smith, who pledged himself to fight the secrecy by-law when he stood for election, attempted to take the wraps off the meeting and give consideration to the subjects presented to the aldermen. Those attempts failed.

The session was an obvious farce as far as the newspapermen were concerned. If it proved anything, it proved that the committee had no intention of conducting its business in public.

All this might pass as an entertaining, if aggravating, display of phony ingenuousness. There was, however, a somewhat discouraging feature to the show. Newspapermen came away convinced that the chairman believed he actually was proving that meetings were open to the press, that he was providing a complete denial of secrecy charges.

Unless the chairman was giving a superb dramatic performance, the event inspired more pity than humor.

Heart of a Community

ONCE AGAIN THIS COMMUNITY is showing a collective heart which should arouse pride. Responses to the calls to aid the Lloyd family, left homeless when fire gutted its Cordova Bay premises and destroyed furniture and other possessions, have been generous and swift.

Replacements may not compensate for the goods which have been lost in the flames. There are sentimental attachments which cannot be mended. But in so far as it is possible to give the young couple and their small family essential furniture and clothing, as well as funds to assist their re-establishment, Greater Victoria is doing its part.

This is the gesture of the good neighbor. It makes the city and surrounding districts just that much better a place in which to live.

St. George and the Dragon—Slightly Revised

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

A MEMBER of our local PTA asked me if I was in favor of suppressing the viler forms of comic books, and I said oh yes, I thought so. He was a little shocked to hear it. Or so I gathered from his expression, and from the peculiar emphasis with which he uttered the word "Censorship!" At this point our conversation was broken off (by outside influences, not by his horror of my views). And I was sorry, for I wanted to ask him two or three questions.

It probably would have seemed quite reasonable to him for the chemist to keep a poison book, and for the government to ban the free sale of certain drugs. Then why should the same chemist be allowed to sell poisons and drugs for the very infant mind? Anyone who sees no harm in this latter trade is simply unaware of the nature of the poisons involved. As I found out when I lent the PTA some comparatively mild Love Comics and War Comics and Crime Comics, I had collected (and read) examples twenty times worse, but had unfortunately hidden them so well I could never find the damned things again. But even my rather mild ones stood the PTA on its broadminded ear.

Of the first six comic books shown to the meeting, five had come from the Brocks' house... and had been brought into the Brocks' house by a little girl along the street who gives the casual observer an impression of sweetness that will one day be the ruin of some young optimist.

When they saw these so-called books, the broadminded and progressive began to revise their ideas on censorship. Yet even the worst of them showed only eight murders, five brutal beatings, and one attempted rape in the first eight pages. And I am not being sarcastic when I say this is simply nothing. To you it may be alarming, but to little girls of ten it is routine stuff... thanks to their parents' quasi-religious taboo on Censorship.

The word Censorship has become a shibboleth. Along with a hundred other words that serve to divide the progressive from the reactionary, the sheep from the goats, the Good Guys from the Bad Guys.

I WANTED to ask my broad-minded chum another thing: If a fairly innocent little boy chalked meaningless but conventionally dirty words on his garage doors, would he erase them? And if he did erase them, would he not be committing an act of censorship?

It would be no use dodging the issue by saying the doors were his own property. That is not the point... he would be impeding the free circulation of ideas.

he would be damaging the little boy's personality, and heaven knows what else. Laugh that off.

MORE ABOUT CENSORS

ON MONDAY I was telling you, very briefly, about an artist who feels nobody should be allowed to laugh at an abstract painting that happens to be funny. Least of all should a newspaperman be allowed to laugh. "Put that man in irons, he's tittered while on art-parade!"

I am only fooling, of course. The pundit didn't use those words, or anything like them. But I am not fooling when I say this is the impression he made on me, and that his pals make on me. Nor am I fooling when I predict that many forms of laughter will soon be illegal. A few are illegal right now. Far from being a friend of censorship, I am one of its deadliest enemies. In most of its beastly manifestations. And I belong to a minority, a minority that continues to shrink. Most people are in favor of any law if it is ostentatiously labelled TOLERANT or PROGRESSIVE, no matter what tyranny and slavery it really involves, and no matter what dead uniformity it leads to. I am not. In what I hope is not a purely destructive sense I am an anarchist. Though goodness knows we have plenty of things that need destroying.

ONE of the things that needs destruction is this holy-holy attitude of the chaps who want to stop your laughter at extremism. I heard the other day of a loyal aesthete who laughed heartily at one of Anna Russell's records while she made fun of various types of song... English pastoral, German lieder, Gilbert & Sullivan, French night club tragic shrugging, and all the rest. She was doing him and the world a service by making fun of those old relics. But when she made fun of a fairly "modern" type of song, he went all religious about such blasphemy and he blew up into a perfect atomic mushroom cloud of radioactive wrath.

It is this religious attitude among the arty that both worries and amuses me. It is also a quasi-political attitude, of course. You can predict these chaps all down the line. They conform. And they are death on non-conformists, on individuals, on independent ideas... they, the prophets of freedom and the enemies of censorship! It is fantastic. Only one candidate is allowed in each artistic constituency, so to speak, yet voting is compulsory and is accompanied by much cant about "democracy." You can read a lot about this in Wyndham Lewis's new little book "The Demon of Progress in the Arts." If it isn't published in Canada yet, I hope it will be soon. And next week I'll give you a few quotations from it... after a breather on Friday, so I won't get cross. It is the crosspatch extremist crusaders I am sniping at. I shouldn't copy their crossness.

The Red China Build-Up

By JOSEPH ALSOP From Taipei, Formosa

THE buildup and the current deployment of Chinese Communist military power ought to give pause to those who regard the Formosa crisis as a mere passing flurry. Since the Korean truce, important ground and air forces have been transferred southwards to the coastal provinces which are the natural jump-off points for an attack on Formosa and/or Formosa's offshore islands. And the modernization of Red China's land army has meanwhile gone rapidly forward, so that most of this huge force is now almost as well equipped as the infantry of the Soviet Union.

Alsop

Authoritative intelligence sources now credit the Peking government with regular ground forces with a strength of more than 3,100,000. These are organized in 210 infantry divisions, 22 artillery divisions, six armored divisions, plus considerable numbers of independent tank and artillery regiments, engineer regiments and cavalry outfits.

REDEPLOYMENT

On the ground, the post-Korean redeployment has been dramatic. At the end of the fighting, the Chinese had 17 of their armies on the Korean front. Seven of these armies (composed of three divisions each and equaling an American corps) have now been transferred out of Korea into China proper.

Three armies from Korea, the 12th, the 20th and the 26th, have been sent down to Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces, where the force threatening the Tachen Islands is massed. A fourth army from Korea, the 60th, is in first reserve position at Nanking. Three more armies from Korea are in North China, close to the north-south railroads that can carry them rapidly to the Yangtze Valley. These must therefore be regarded as a secondary reserve.

The Chekiang-Kiangsu force, immediately threatening the Tachens, now comprises four armies in all. Further south, in Fukien Province, across the narrow waters from Quemoy and the Matsu Islands, there is a second large mass of troops comprising three armies. None of these armies in Fukien, however, is of Korean origin. The air redeployment has followed almost exactly the same pattern. Before the Korean armistice, the main strength of the Chinese Communist air force of just under 2,000 combat planes was stationed in Manchuria, to support the ground troops at the Korean front. In this period, the dispositions along the China coast were obviously defensive.

STEP UP AIR STRENGTH

Now, however, an additional 500 aircraft, including five air divisions of MIG 15s, have been transferred southwards. Instead of being in the north, the main strength of the Communist air force is thus concentrated in Chekiang, Kiangsu and the lower Yangtze Valley, where the air-base building program has been intensive. And there is a secondary concentration, of five additional air divisions, in the more southerly region around Canton.

In the air picture, however, there is one important difference from the ground picture. There is a striking gap in Fukien Province, in the immediate neighborhood of Quemoy and the Matsus. No air units are as yet stationed here. Only one Fukien airfield, at Fochow, is fully ready to support jet operations. In view of the distances involved and the short range of the MIG 15, the Communists would therefore find it difficult, at this time, to use their most important plane in large numbers in support of assaults on Quemoy or the Matsus.

The picture that emerges, then, is one of methodical preparation which is not absolutely completed. The dispositions of enemy forces clearly point towards an imminent attack on the Tachen Islands, unless of course they are given these islands as a present first, under the current American plan.

FORMOSA TARGET

The slow but inexorable movement of all forces southwards also points to an eventual attack on Quemoy and the Matsu island of Formosa. The timing of these operations is rendered doubtful by the air gap in Fukien already noted. But it should be added, that despite the air gap both Chinese and American experts here give the Communists the capability of attacking either the Matsus or Quemoy or both at any time. For this purpose they have a sea lift capacity sufficient to move 50,000 men. A so-called seaman's division, specially trained in the management of sea lift, is stationed close to the Matsus, suggesting that these islands are next on the list.

In short, what the Communists can do if they choose to risk the consequences is only too grimly clear. What they will do is not by any means so clear. But the consensus in Taipei, which seems logical to this reporter, is not particularly encouraging.

In brief, it is plain for all the world to see that President Eisenhower is hoping that evacuation of the Tachens plus a show of firmness about the other islands, will eventually enable him to make a deal. Quemoy and the Matsus are to be traded for a promise of toleration of the Nationalists on Formosa. Two Chinas, one small and in the process of withering away, the other vast and growing stronger by the month, are thus to be recognized.

This must look logical in Washington. But the consensus here, even among the few who favor such a deal, is that the president will not get what he wants by mere hints that he may perhaps fight for Quemoy and the Matsus. It seems likely, rather, that the president will have to prove he means it, by actually fighting for those islands when the time comes.

As Our Readers See It

PAY-AS-YOU-GO BORROWING

Premier Bennett has stated on many occasions, "We are a pay-as-you-go government."

Let's take a second look:

Under the Social Credit government we have the highest budget in the history of our province, $211,881,242.

$60,000,000 will be borrowed for the PGE (this includes the $30,000,000 for last year).

$30,000,000 will be borrowed for highways and toll bridges.

$30,000,000 will be borrowed for the B.C. Power Commission. (The B.C. Power Commission now will be able to borrow up to $110,000,000.)

The Secureds boast of debt reduction. Premier Bennett and his Secureds certainly take first prize for double talk.

How crazy can we voters get?

LITTLE TAXPAYER.

DELIGHTFULLY VAGUE

Your correspondent, J. D. Johnson, indulges in some delightfully vague, inane generalities in criticizing Mr. Arthur Laing and Mr. Archie Gibbs.

He accuses them of "persisting in falsifying the facts," but does not state what facts they have been falsifying (sometimes the truth hurts) and he goes on to say "that the federal Liberals know they are losing ground and to save themselves they are attempting to split up the CCF party." Very profound statements indeed. This sort of letter writing is the same type of propaganda the public is being fed by the Secureds in public statements and booklets, catch phrases, a lot of words, but perplexingly vague to say the least.

ONE OF THE UNCRACKED.

DEER SLAYERS

In answer to Mr. C. M. Atchison's letter—he still thinks it is all right to slaughter and wound our deer and let them die in agony. Now he refers to Arizona, where a herd of 30,000 deer died in one winter of starvation. Since when did our deer run in such a big herd?

They must have broken out of some farmyard zoo and wandered off into the petrified forest and starved to death. My answer to that is the game department must have gone to sleep on the job in the state of Arizona.

Now Mr. Atchison, we will get back to our evergreen wonderland in British Columbia where God and nature has been kind to our game and supplied them abundantly with food and water whether it be a dry summer or a hard cold winter. I have had over 40 years' experience in this vast evergreen wonderland and I have seen snow plenty deep in the hills, but I have never seen any game that have died or starved to death through a hard winter.

But I have come across a lot of dogs that have been killed and wounded out of season. The natural instinct in our game tells them what to do in the deepest of snow. They will go to the lower levels and forage for their natural food. That kind of talk about our vast country being overrun by game is plain drivel. Nature will take care of that, too.

I still urge more protection for our deer and bear that are killed and wounded and left to die in agony. My advice to you, Mr. Atchison, is to get out into the wide open spaces and see what's going on.

No, Mr. Atchison, I have not quit logging yet and I am still in the woods. That's why I see and know so much about our game and these shyllocks who call themselves hunters.

OLD LOGGER.

WISDOM OF THE MODERNS

May I be allowed a word or two re the broadcast of Mrs. Knight in England (it could apply also to Dr. Brock Chisholm's recent words).

I think one of the best answers to both is in Time—quoting an editorial in the London Spectator: "The attacks on Mrs. Knight do Christians little credit. It is not Christians but her fellow scientific humanists, assuming that there are any, who have reason to be distressed by her broadcasts. They can hardly relish having the utter barrenness of their beliefs formulated and widely publicized. The BBC deserves congratulations for these broadcasts. The churches must press for as many more of them as possible. No longer will there be any excuse for thinking that there is something in itself clever about not being religious, or that religious people are any more credulous than so-called unbelievers. Mrs. Knight ought to be promoted to television."

We should have respect for good work done in any field, but we cannot respect those who speak of that of which they know nothing. Remember the word of God given in Isaiah XXIX-14 (quoted by one writer to your paper lately):

"Destroying the scientist's science and baffling its scholars' researches"; or as another translator has it, "The wisdom of their wise men shall perish and the intelligence of their intelligent men shall vanish."

The so-called wisdom of the modernists of recent decades has already been exposed as fallacious by the discoveries of archaeology, and agnostics are now exposing their meagre knowledge.

MARKED for READING INVETERATE TRAMPS

At Ouidja, the border between Algeria and Morocco, I met an elderly Yorkshireman, Harry Wright. I spotted him near the customs, loaded down with haversacks, pans hanging from his waist, wearing an old army bush shirt with pockets bulging, and crowned with a battered trilby. He told me he was going hiking in the Atlas Mountains—got all his camping gear with him. Last year he had been out hiking in the Lebanon. He only had three weeks, then back he said, to his office in England. Now, all round the world I've come across these Harry Wrights—brewing up in the Sahara, sailing down the Ganges, in Bali exploring the bat caves. We are still, I think, the nation with the greatest wanderlust.

—Colin Jackson, who has just returned to London from Morocco and Algeria.

Gunderson's Appointment

THE acceptance by Mr. Einar Gunderson of a position on the directorate of the Canadian Bank of Commerce should establish one and for all—if ever there was any doubt—that the Sacred talent for audacity is nothing short of spectacular.

For many years "the Commerce" has been principal banker to the Government of British Columbia. Now it has on its board a man who holds down three Government jobs, who has been sitting in the Finance Minister's office, and who will be advising the Government on a $90 million borrowing program.

In short, Mr. Gunderson is working for both borrower and lender. No matter how lofty his motives, how noble his aspirations, he has placed himself in an invidious and untenable position, without precedent in our parliamentary experience.

No man has had a more bizarre career in public life than Mr. Gunderson. He first won a seat in Similkameen, where, in the heat of campaign oratory, he promised voters he would represent them in Cabinet just as long as he was able.

But when the Government fell, he ran in Oak Bay—and was defeated by Archie Gibbs. In November, 1953, he tried for a seat in the Victoria by-election and was toppled by George Gregory. Throughout these campaigns he insisted that he was running at great sacrifice and would be only too glad to return to his private practice as a chartered accountant.

By the democratic process, the voters thus gave him two opportunities to fulfill his wish. Or, to put it harshly, they said they didn't want him. And what happened?

Premier Bennett sent him on two expeditions.

to "trade" missions, to Japan and Europe. I have read Mr. Gunderson's reports of these trips carefully and still don't know what solid business he brought to our province. A strong hint was put out, mind you, that Mr. Gunderson was in some way connected with the sale of Canadian apples to Great Britain. A check with the relevant department in Ottawa revealed that the deal was negotiated by the Federal Government over a year before Gunderson left Canada!

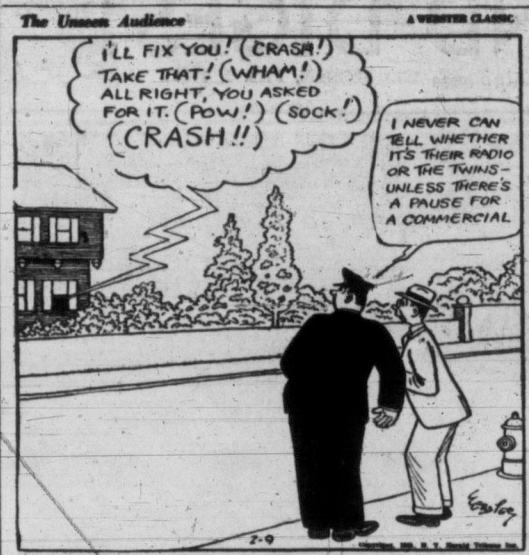

Mr. Bennett had already appointed his friend Gunderson to the PGE and the Toll Bridge Authority. When some "carping critics" pointed out his anomalous position—sitting in the Finance Minister's office, advising the Government, neither a civil servant nor an elected representative—the Premier moved to clarify his status. He appointed Gunderson a "special economic adviser" to the Government.

The PGE and the Toll Bridge Authority, let it be noted, have high priority on the projected borrowings. Can Mr. Gunderson, by any stretch of the imagination, be regarded as an unbiased witness when the Government goes to the banks?

Consider, too, the position of the bank in all this. I wonder if it is aware that it has taken on its directorate a man who has publicly espoused the principles of Social Credit—the same principles which led to the Aberhart assault on the banking system in the mid-thirties, and led to the jailing of two of Mr. Douglas's home-grown apostles?

Does this bank know that the Premier, in an answer to a question last week, arose in the House and said: "The Premier believes in monetary reform?"

Mr. Gunderson must make up his mind. Either he is a servant of the people, or of the bank. On any other basis this arrangement won't wash.

HALIFAX WANTS OWN STATUE OF LIBERTY

HALIFAX (CP)—Current agitation for a Canadian-style Statue of Liberty at this old seaport seems to have stemmed from a whimsical suggestion at a recent social function.

The campaign, whose idea involves an imposing statue of welcome on George's Island in mid-harbor, is in high gear now.

The Halifax Board of Trade can be numbered among the groups who feel that the thousands of immigrants landing here each year deserve something a little better in the way of inspiration than the back end of a grain elevator.

Date of the annual Empire Day Parade is still undecided following a meeting of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee Tuesday night.

300 Teachers Not Fully Qualified

VANCOUVER (CP)—C. D. Ovens, secretary of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Monday the number of teachers not fully qualified yet teaching in secondary schools is a serious problem.

The reason, he said, is that teaching does not compete financially with industry for the available supply of university graduates.

Of the province's 2,800 teachers, 300 were employed last year without full qualifications. Mr. Ovens said the figure will probably be higher this year.

All provinces are short of teachers, but B.C. has been able to protect its standards better than any other province, he said.

$300,000 Estate Compiled Here By Immigrant

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver business man who came to Canada as a Romanian immigrant and farmed in Saskatchewan, has left his family $300,000.

Sebastian Holzick, who died here January 29, left an income of $500 a month to his widow, Julia, of Vancouver, and $100 a month to his brother Jacob in Germany.

Two daughters, Mrs. Emma Magnuson of Lethbridge, Alta., and Mrs. Elsie Olella Larson of Los Angeles; and a son, Sebastian, of Wynyard, Sask., share the balance of the income.

Rowboat Rescues B.C. Women as Houseboat Sinks

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A houseboat sank in Burrard Inlet near North Vancouver Tuesday, but two women were rescued after the owner rowed 200 yards in a boat for help.

Mrs. Blanche Thorsen, 62, and her daughter, Irene, 36, were rescued after Hermer Thorsen, 76, waded through waist-deep water to get into a rowboat and go for help.

LANGFORD—An illustrated address on Japan will be given Friday at 7.30 at Langford Baptist Church by Rev. E. V. Apps, Mission City.

In addition to being pastor of the Mission City Baptist Church, Mr. Apps is chairman of the foreign missions committee of Japan's regular Baptist Mission.

He will show films and play tape recordings. The meeting will be open to the public.

Cliches Scatter Like Ninepins As Churchill Edits Communiqué

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Pity the poor civil servant who tries to draft a communiqué when Prime Minister Churchill's on the premises.

After hours of ponderous preparation—a rolling phrase here, a glittering generality there—the drafting clerk sinks back in satisfied exhaustion.

Then the master hand goes into zesty action. A fresh cigar clamped between his teeth, an editor's blue pencil in hand, Churchill sits down to the paper, smoothing the unruly syntax, substituting positive for negative, letting the chips—and the clichés—fall where they may.

"Tautology!" he snorts, making a curt correction in his small, neat hand.

Sir Winston Churchill, ex-war correspondent, still a rewrite man at heart, has done it again at the London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers. For days a drafting committee, including as Canadian representative high commissioner Norman Robertson, has labored over ways of saying, or not saying, what went on at the Commonwealth conference.

The communiqué was published Tuesday night. It certainly bore the marks—of Churchill's work, and it would be fascinating to compare the original with the finished product.

At one point in the drafting, Churchill, objected to even so sonorous a word as "association," claiming that in its particular context—a reference to the Commonwealth of Nations—it was redundant.

So the drafting officials had to go back to work, laboring until midnight.

"The draft had been prepared and prepared almost ad nauseam," say The Times. "How, ever, when Sir Winston got to work upon it, officials present were eventually left in a state of rapt fascination." Perhaps the officials should not complain. After all, they are getting the benefit of Churchill's way with words for nothing. When young Winston was a correspondent for The Morning Post in the Boer War, he was paid £15 a column, the highest price on Fleet Street.

The Need to Explain

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A fine woman writes to say that, before a patient is to be operated on, or hurt by some unpleasant examination, he or she ought to be somewhat prepared for it; the doctor ought to explain what he is going to do. Often there is nothing to be feared from the examination and then the patient should be assured of this fact. My correspondent wrote as she did because she had just taken a child to have an electroencephalogram made, and the poor youngster, on coming into the laboratory and seeing a lot of apparatus, was much alarmed. Then, when a young woman started sticking the ends of many small wires to several spots on his scalp, he wanted to scream and fight his way out.

I imagine the girl said, "Don't worry, this won't hurt you," but that was not enough. I think if I had been the girl I would have taken the child in to see the little pens that write on a moving roll of paper; I would have gotten him interested, and then I would have made it clear to him that the wires on his head were to carry no electricity into his skull; they were to carry the normal tiny currents out of his brain to make the little pens write on paper. Only when I saw that the child had lost his fright and was trusting me would I have started fastening the wires to his scalp.

TREATMENTS TERRIFIED

Another reason for my correspondent's strong feeling on this subject of reassurance by us doctors is the fact that once, when a bit depressed, to please her family, she had some electroshock treatments. She says that the experience, at best somewhat terrifying, wouldn't have been so distressing if the doctor had only done more explaining; if he had satisfied her there would be no pain, and that she would not be harmed. She said it was terrifying to come into the room where, on a table, she saw straps which she thought were going to be used to tie her down.

I often think how distressing it is for thousands of persons to have to go into an operating room all alone without anyone around whom they know or trust. They may not even see the surgeon whom they have met perhaps once for a few minutes. Even he is a stranger.

The doctors and nurses who are walking around the room are doing their work, and they pay no attention to the patient. The orderly who wheeled the patient in left, and went off about his business. The only person likely to pay any attention to the patient will probably be the anesthetist. Fortunately, today, anesthetists are thinking more and more of the need for talking to the lonely and frightened patient. Often they could reassure him more than they do.

FRIGHT CAN KILL

Years ago, Dr. George Crile concluded that many of the patients with severe exophthalmic goiter, made ill and toxic and jittery after years of poisoning by too much thyroid substance, when operated on died, not of the operation, but of fright. Accordingly, he started out by accustoming them each day in their hospital room to taking a few whiffs of laughing gas, until they had no more fear of the apparatus and the anesthetist.

They knew that same day they would be operated on, but they did not know when. Then one day, the anesthetist gave a few more whiffs than usual and the patient fell asleep. Then she was wheeled to the operating-room where the goiter was quickly removed.

My friend, Dr. L. Enge, of Stanford University, tells me that he never wants to operate on a woman and remove her pelvic organs until he has become well acquainted with her and has had several interviews in which she has had a chance to ask all the questions she has had in her mind, and has got rid of her fears of the operation. The doctor never wants to operate before the woman is satisfied that she will not die on the table, that she will not lose her sexual attractiveness, that she will not need to get fat, that she will not lose her mind, and that she will not get hairs on her chin!

ANEURYSMS

People ask, What is an aneurysm? It is a blow-out in an ulcerated or otherwise weakened place in an artery. The dilated place may gradually keep getting bigger for years. Often the main symptom is great pain due to the pressure of the growing tumor on neighboring bones or nerves.

Obviously, a man with a growing aneurysm is in a serious condition. Fortunately, today, surgeons are becoming even more skillful in treating these blow-outs. Often they transplant a new piece of artery. Naturally, there is no medicine that is likely to be curative, but often these people need much morphine or some similar drug.

PURIFYING WATER WITH SILVER

It is said that the ancient Romans used to purify their drinking water by leaving a bar of silver in an aqueduct. Now, the United States Public Health Service says that water containing less than one part of silver to a million is safe to drink and is freed from many harmful bacteria. Silver will tend to keep water pure when the concentration is only seven parts in a billion.

SPOILSPORT STOPS DEER'S EDUCATION

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Residents of the Rainier National Park area have always known the deer around there are smarter than anywhere else in the country.

Now it appears one of them wants to start school. William A. Peterman of National had to kick it out of the school bus he was driving this morning.

"This deer followed one of the boys right into the bus," Peterman said. "I pushed it out and finally had to shut the door in its face to keep it out."

Library Board Voice Sought By C. Saanich

SAANICHTON—Irked by the $5,200 library costs levied against the municipality, and facing an increased levy of $6,400 next year, Central Saanich will demand representation on the Victoria Public Library board.

Reeve H. Rupert Brown and Cirs. Harold Andrew and John E. Windsor will form the delegation picked to attend the meeting scheduled to be held with the library board in the city next Monday afternoon, and some plain talking is expected to result.

The disclosure was made Tuesday night at the regular meeting of central Saanich council that the contract with the library board holds for two years.

Surprise was registered when municipal clerk John Ismay informed council that the estimated bill for next year would be $6,400. Reeve Brown said that when the library plan was first broached they were given to understand that the bill would be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

BACKWARD STEP

That was before the bookmobile was put into operation, he explained.

Mr. Windsor, who attended a previous meeting of the library board and left the impression that Central Saanich might drop out, told council that he believed it "would be a backward step to withdraw from the library service."

He suggested that one way out might be to limit the number of books per person and thus hold down costs. On a per capita basis, he figured the annual cost would work out at something like $3.50.

The reeve assumed that people "carried a number of books home that were never opened," which tended to run up the costs.

NO 'FREE' BOOKS

Children, who were probably the largest users, did not get the books free, Mr. Windsor pointed out. He ventured to remark that if four books were issued to each person on the basis of 44 cents a book, the cost to the municipality would be staggering.

After probing the entire set-up, council took the view that the municipality should have a vote in the deliberations of the library board and intimated that would be the basis of the arguments to be presented by the municipal delegation at the Feb. 14 conference.

Council heard a delegation from Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce relative to the wording of the petition to be presented to the ratepayers on the street lighting plans. Discussion centred around a suggestion to strike out the word "lot" and substitute "parcel."

Dr. Herman Wood, Victor J. Wood and Alexander Cuthbert spoke for the delegation.

On motion of Mr. Harry Peard it was decided to strike out the word "lot" wherever it appears on the petition and submit same to the deputy minister of municipalities for approval.

Council was notified by the office of Premier W. A. C. Bennett that under the provisions of the budget brought down in the Legislature, Central Saanich would receive $19,400 over and

Civil Servants Laud Government Medical Scheme

NANAIMO (CP)—A government plan to provide a new medical scheme for B.C. civil servants received commendation in a resolution adopted at the annual meeting here of the B.C. government employees' medical services.

The plan for the 6,000 workers was announced in the speech from the throne at the opening of the legislature.

It is designed "to provide the best possible medical service to government employees at the lowest possible cost."

The employees' medical service last year paid out $342,212 for medical and hospital accounts, the financial statement showed.

S. R. H. Evans was re-elected president. Executive members include E. Druce, D. Heineky and Cliff Stephens of Victoria, and Claude L. Campbell, Nanaimo.

Lumber Shipments Show Increase

CHEMUNUS—Lumber shipments from the ports of Chemunus and Crofton showed a healthy increase last month with 18,553,000 feet loaded aboard 23 vessels.

Largest single load was taken on by the Ss. Master Elias Kulkundis, a Greek ship that loaded 1,772,000 feet at Crofton.

Exports to United States markets included 3,866,600 units of pulp chips shipped to Bellingham and Port Townsend and valued at $48,745; and 1,142 boxes of claims valued at $2,569.

Funeral Tuesday For G. Nelson

LADYSMITH (CP)—Funeral service was held Tuesday for Gustave Adolph Nelson, 81, retired professional gardener who died in hospital Saturday.

Born at Kalstad, Sweden, Mr. Nelson emigrated to the United States in 1893, and then moved to Canada in 1910, where he was employed at Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., in charge of the company gardens.

Burns Club in Ladysmith Re-Elects Full Executive

Steer Works On Farm at Happy Valley

When a horse belonging to George Wilson, Happy Valley, died from eating bracken, Mr. Wilson put his cow in harness as a substitute.

Later she worked in double harness with her calf Billy, who now does all the plowing, harrowing, mowing and raking on the little farm.

A Shorthorn steer, he is worked in an inverted horse collar, and "steered" by lines leading to a ring in his nose.

It was natural for Mr. Wilson to turn to his cattle as draft animals, since he had worked oxen years ago in England. He has been on his present farm, just 10 miles from urban Victoria, since 1943.

FATHER CLAIMS POOL SAFER THAN DRIVING

PORT ALBERNI—An appeal that boys of 16 and 17 years be allowed to enter poolrooms was made to the city council this week by William Pedersen, father of several boys.

Pool is a "comparatively innocent" sport, he said, and is much less harmful than driving cars around the district at high speed.

Mayor Loran Jordan said he had heard that a "flu epidemic in the high school here had been proved to be in part an epidemic of hookey, and that some of the "invalids" were found in poolrooms.

Military Leaders Against War, Chisholm Condemns Politicians

SOOKE—For the first time in history, "the human race is really in danger of extermination itself," Dr. Brock Chisholm told Sooke PTA Monday night.

"The general staffs of the countries of the world are against war," said the former director-general of the World Health Organization. "The dangerous people now are the politicians, because most of them seem to lack an awareness of the true situation and the tremendous destructive power of modern weapons."

Dr. Chisholm's subject was "Emotional Development of Children," and he was pointing out the necessity of considering a completely new world with its recent perfection of mass killing methods, and the need for the coming generation to be trained in the kind of thinking necessary to this new world.

Quoting from the constitution of the W.H.O., Dr. Chisholm said: "The healthy development of children is of basic importance. The ability to live harmoniously in a totally changing environment is essential to their development."

Pointing up the need for totally new concepts, he said further: "The worst thing that could happen would be for our children to grow up to become as we are, because we are quite inadequate to handle the situations which confront us."

"By the time a child is in his teens, and surely not later than his early 20s, he should be able to look and plan for his next 10 years. If he does not, or cannot, he will drift, and any success that comes will be a matter of accident. The mature adult should be able to look and think and plan for two or three generations ahead and this type of thinking is essential if the evolution of the human race is to continue."

LOVE NECESSARY

The world-famous psychologist spoke of the needs of the young child and stressed the importance of close and intimate love if the child is to have a feeling of belonging. The pre-school child should not, he said, be required to be the perfect little gentleman or the perfect little lady. The time spent in forcing the child into such unnatural channels would be better spent in orienting him in time and space. He should have some concept of time past and of the days to come, and should have some knowledge of the world he inhabits. Such orientation is basic and relieves the teacher of a considerable burden, he said.

It was announced in the business portion of the meeting that materials for two bus shelters for school children had been donated by local businessmen, and it was decided that parents living close to the sites chosen for the shelters would donate their labor to the building of them. It was announced that there will be a PTA dance in the Community Hall Feb. 12.

COLWOOD—Scout and Cub group committee here will hold a paper drive to finance the trip of local scouts to the World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., in August.

K. Dillabaugh, who has been in charge of Cubs for some time, was presented with a Scout knife in appreciation of his services.

New PTA Group Organized In North Oyster District

LADYSMITH—D. Morgan was elected president of the newly-formed North Oyster PTA at an organization meeting held here, narrowly defeating D. Fisher.

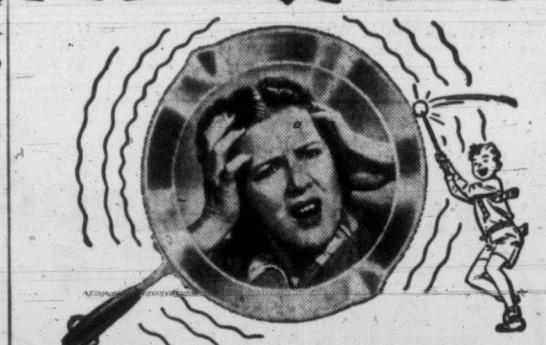

Mr. Fisher will be one of two members to represent the group on the local Parent-Teacher Council.

About 30 parents attended the meeting on the invitation of A. S. J. Reiber, North Oyster School principal. Mrs. R. Hindmarch, council president; Mrs. J. Lewis, vice-president, and Mrs. J. E. Stubbington, treasurer, addressed the meeting. Other officers elected were Mr. Reiber, honorary president; Mrs. L. Trudell, vice-president; Mrs. D. Vradenburgh, secretary; Mrs. A. Henderson, treasurer.

Program conveners are M. Russell and Mrs. P. Poole. Committee chairmen are Mrs. A. Schofield, membership; Mrs. William Ritchie, publicity; Mrs. L. Griswold, social; Mrs. B. P. Williams, hospitality. Mrs. L. Carlson is historian and Mrs. L. Trudell council delegate.

Sacred Claims On Debt Slash Drew CCF Scorn

Like Father Looting
Piggy-Banks—Nimsick

Social Credit government's handling of B.C.'s debt Tuesday was compared to a bad stepfather cleaning out piggy banks.

Leo Nimsick, (CCF-Cranbrook) made the comparison in the Legislature. He said the "piggy banks" were numerous funds left by the Coalition and Liberal governments.

"When you took office, you ran around picking them up, and cleaned them all out," said Mr. Nimsick. He mentioned the hospital construction fund, the Squamish Highway fund, and several others.

The Cranbrook member said the government is now in the process of setting up another piggy bank fund. "You owe the municipalities $6,400,000, the rest of their one-fifth share of the 5 per cent sales tax," said Mr. Nimsick.

"It's going into another piggy bank, and next year you will clean it out to reduce the debt," he said. "That money belongs to the municipalities."

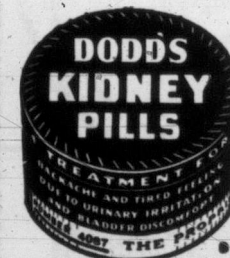

The sales tax method of assisting municipal governments to pay education and general costs will be scrapped by the provincial government's new school formula.

The money referred to by Mr. Nimsick would have been paid to municipal governments later this year if the existing system had continued.

Premier Bennett said later that if the money was paid, it would mean municipalities would receive aid under two school financing methods this year, which he said was impossible.

Free Drugs No Cure To Problem—Bonner

Attorney-General Bonner Tuesday turned thumbs down on free drug distribution as a method of wiping out B.C.'s drug addiction problem.

Mr. Bonner, speaking in the budget debate in the Legislature, said legal sale of drugs, or free treatment, "has never defeated the illegal traffic."

He said the argument that if addicts can buy drugs legally, they could buy them out of regular wages and would not have to steal to buy them at the high prices on the black market, is answered by the fact that:

"The present research has demonstrated that 71 out of 100 addicts admitted criminal acts before using drugs."

The attorney-general said B.C. will embark on preliminary studies "early this spring"

Boy Meets Girl —Thanks to Bottle in River

NELSON (CP) — A Slokan Park girl read a story in a school book about sending messages to sea in a bottle.

The story impressed Nancy Samanoff, so she wrote a note, tucked it in a bottle and dropped it into the Slokan River. This was in May, 1953.

The bottle, buffeted by currents of the Slokan, the Kootenay and the Columbia, bobbed past Castlegar, on past Trail, over the international boundary into Washington.

Last month Nancy got a letter from a Washington lad: Dan R. Balcom. He had found her bottle. He wrote Nancy asking her to become his pen pal.

It was the third bottled mail Don had received from Canada.

$1,200 Price on Head Of Man-Killer Shark

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — A reward of $1,200 was offered Tuesday for the catching of a man-eating shark which has killed two swimmers in the last two months. Swimmers in the Sydney area have been warned that the 12-footer will probably attack any human it can.

EDUCATION FORMULA MYSTIFIES VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—City comptroller Frank Jones will fly to Victoria today in hopes of solving mysteries of the new provincial education finance formula which has stalled city budget-making for 1955.

The trip was arranged at an emergency meeting called by acting mayor Bill Orr between aldermen and city finance officials who are at a loss to understand the new formula.

"Why can't the government put its cards on the table and let us know what is happening," said Ald. Orr. "We cannot go ahead with our 1955 budget until they do."

Socreds Say Politics Stop Mica Creek Dam

Legislature, Commons Hear Protests On Federal Government Policies

Federal government has delayed construction of the Mica Creek Dam and is curtailing development for political reasons, R. O. Newton (SC-Columbia) charged Tuesday.

Mr. Newton said that "if it hadn't been for the political attitude taken by the federal government that a start would have been made on this (Mica Creek) dam during this year."

The Mica dam would be constructed at the Big Bend of the Columbia River. Estimated cost is $425,000,000.

LONG WAIT

The Columbia MLA said "however, since the federal government want to build the dam, and they are so tangled up pulling politics and pulling red herrings out of the Columbia Fraser River scheme, I'm afraid we will have a long time to wait."

Mr. Newton's statement was a reference to the federal government's proposed study of a diversion of waste waters of the Columbia into the Fraser River system.

He said the federal administration is "only interested in any kind of development in B.C. to the extent of the dollar value it means to them."

POOR TIME

Mr. Newton said, "It would appear a very poor time to try and curtail development for purely political reasons," now that Canada's dollar is softening, opening up opportunity for increased trade, and therefore expansion of resources development.

"If our development is to be curtailed, then I think it is time we had an immigration policy of our own, to keep employment for B.C. people," said Mr. Newton.

He said many people are coming to B.C. from other Canadian points, and from other countries, "taking over the jobs," and that it is "time we took steps to curtail immigration" if the federal government is to block development.

Livestock Marketing Board Plan Stirs Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—A proposal to set up a marketing system for livestock based on the principles of the Canadian Wheat Board has touched off a major controversy in Saskatchewan farm circles.

The plan envisages a marketing board with producer representation and sweeping powers to control almost all sections of the livestock industry. If it passes an acid test—a series of 10 public meetings starting in March—it may be presented in a plebiscite for approval or disapproval by all stock men.

WIDE POWER

The plan as it stands now proposes the board would have power to regulate and control "in any or all aspects" the marketing of livestock. Companies would be required to report on their operations and permit the board to inspect books. Meat could be seized and licenses which would be issued could be cancelled for violation of board orders. Anyone engaged in storing or marketing livestock could be required to register with the board.

Basically, the controversy is between the big livestock raiser and the grain farmer who supplies the bulk of produce for livestock markets.

Farmers with large herds, their cattle associations and spokesmen for meat packers are against the scheme. In favor are some farm organizations, the grain farmer who wants to use livestock production as a means of spreading his hazards, and the Saskatchewan government. They hope the proposed board will be one of several and spark the formation of a national organization with firm support prices backed by the federal government.

JOHANNESBURG (AP)

—South Africa's segregationist government today launched its forced evacuation of a condemned Negro section three days early, and scores of Africans fled deeper into the area to evade the order.

The government touched off the midnight flight with an order giving 150 families 12 hours to move from Johannesburg's Sophiatown district to the new Meadowlands housing project for negroes 12 miles outside city limits.

As a prelude to the first evacuation order, originally scheduled for Saturday, all public meetings have been banned in the Johannesburg area for the next 20 days.

HELP WITH MOVING

Amid the rain-swept darkness, many of those ordered out carried their children, furniture and clothes to join friends and relatives living elsewhere in the area.

The flight was directed by a hooded mystery man, an ANC leader hunted by police for helping to organize the resistance campaign his organization is leading.

Police cars trailed foreign correspondents touring the area. Whenever the reporters stopped to talk with residents the police ordered them to move on.

Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom's Nationalist government plans to move 60,000 Africans from the western part of the city to new homes outside the metropolis. The government calls the program slum clearance. It will segregate the races but will leave the Negroes close enough to the city to provide a labor force.

Bringing Up Baby

Hint Collected by The New Yorker (Mother of 5)

Browsing through some old magazine and newspaper clippings the other day, I came upon this charming, anonymous poem. Am certain I was saving it to show somebody—

When Junior's up to tricks all day
My patience certainly wears thin,
But once he's in his crib, I say
"My, what an angel he has been."

Active "little everything" toddlers need plenty of proteins to further growth, develop sturdy muscles, strong bone and body structures.

Gerber's Junior Meats are rich in these basic "body-building" materials. Made from juicy cuts, they have a tender, evenly-minced texture that tots with a few teeth can manage with a maximum of pleasure, a minimum of trouble.

100% meat, they have the natural, true-meat flavors baby enjoyed so much in Gerber's Strained Meats, Beef, Veal, Pork, Liver & Bacon and Lamb to keep your baby's appetite bright.

Foot-loose. Toddler's feet grow so fast, the life-span of socks is pretty short. Economy note: the new nylon stretchable socks that stretch to suit growing feet. Last for inches and inches.

"Second helping" luncheon suggestion:

SWEET POTATO CUSTARD
1 cup Gerber's Junior Sweet Potatoes
1/4 cup orange juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten... salt

Combine ingredients, pour into greased custard cups. Set cups in pan of hot water. Bake at 350°F, 35 minutes. 2 servings... both equally lip-smacking.

Stain-less story! This from a column-reading mother: cod-liver oil stains are more easily removed if you rub spots with a bit of baby's tale before washing garments.

Vancouver Pilot Among Killed In Jet Crashes

CHATHAM, N.B.—Two Sabre jet fighters crashed and exploded near this air force training base in eastern New Brunswick Tuesday and the RCAF launched an inquiry into the deaths of the two pilots.

The victims were FO Philip A. Standen, 22, of Vancouver, unmarried, and FO Richard F. Stee, 22, of Mimico, Ont.

The air force said the bodies will be shipped to their homes for burial today.

The sleek Sabres, one of the two types around which the RCAF is building its fighter strength, crashed independently of one another but only five minutes apart.

HOME GARDEN

Ornamental Grasses Worth Studying

Grass to the gardener usually means either something to remove from the flower border, or something to mow.

There is, however, a class which belongs to neither group—the ornamental grasses.

Little use is made today of these delightful fillers, yet they have a place in modern flower arrangements.

Against the severity of monotone walls and unadorned pieces of furniture—the airiness and grace of ornamental grasses would create a delightful picture. Combined with the solidity of color and form of the gladiolus, for instance, and the dahlia, I can visualize some striking effects.

In arrangements for smaller rooms, flowers without foliage such as the elegant tritonia (montbretia), or the dainty sprays of the small flowered Gladiolus nanus varieties could well be enhanced by judicious use of ornamental grasses.

There are a number of annual grasses which may be raised from seed. These may be sown now in pots indoors, or an April sowing outdoors may suit some gardeners better. The earlier sowing is to be preferred, since started plants may be set out by the end of April.

It is several years since I grew any of these attractive grasses, and so far this year I have not seen them listed locally. However, I do feel that they are worth the time hunting for them.

Here are a few of the names: Briza maxima (pearl grass), B. minor (quaking grass), Lagurus ovatus (hare's tail), Coix lacryma-jobi (Job's tears), and Agrostis nebulosa (cloud grass)—here's hoping both you and I can find some seed!

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS

1 OUT OF 3 DOES!

Piggeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

'AETH A FY NGWUNT I FWRDD' That's Welsh Lass's Reaction to New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Few visitors arriving in New York by ship bother to bring along their own lifeboat any more.

But Jane Jones, a young lass from Wales, did. Stepping ashore clad in a red cloak, an 18th-century-style Welsh dress and a high-topped black beaver hat, she took one look at busy Manhattan and exclaimed:

"Aeth a fy ngwunt i fwrdd yn symyd mor kyflym!"

This, as any Welshman would grasp instantly, meant:

"It takes my breath away—everything moves so fast!"

GOOD WILL TOUR

Miss Jones—a name as common as Kim in Korea or Smith in North America—won over 1,100 other contestants to become the national hostess of Wales. She is here for a seven-week, coast-to-coast good will tour of the U.S. and Canada. With her she brought a corgei, a coracle, a collection of wooden love spoons, a black Bible made from a block of coal, a 5½-foot harp, and a walking stick which once belonged to the Welsh statesman David Lloyd George.

The corgei turned out to be an underslung, mystified, homesick lady dog named Ceri, and pronounced "Kerry."

"The word corgei means cur or mongrel," explained Janet, who is 21, pretty, auburn-haired and blue-eyed.

"The corgei has been honored in Wales since Howell the Good passed a law in 916 exempting the breed from taxes because they kept the pastures free of lurking wild animals. The corgei has been adopted by the Royal Family."

ORIGIN OF SPOONING

The coracle turned out to be an ancient-type Welsh boat made of wicker and cowhide, so light even a girl could pack it on her back.

Now about those wooden love spoons?

"In the old time," said Janet, "instead of giving the girl of his choice an engagement ring, a Welsh boy would come to her with a spoon he had carved. The more beautiful the carving, the more he loved her."

"If she accepted the spoon, they were engaged. That is where the term 'spooning' came from. If she turned down the spoon, it was love's labor lost."

"Very occasionally the old custom is still followed. It is much easier today to buy an engagement ring. But I'd much rather have a love spoon myself."

However, Janet made it quite clear she expects no love spoon on this trip.

"It'll be much too busy to look for a husband," she said.

Miss Jones, daughter of a Presbyterian minister, comes from a Welsh village only 50 miles from the town with the longest name in the world. It is—here we go, kids, look out for the vowels: "Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllantysillioogoch."

Miss Jones, believe it or not, can pronounce this in less than five seconds from a standing start.

"In English," she said, "it means 'St. Mary's Church, in a hollow of white hazel, close to a rapid whirlpool and St. Tysilio's Church, and near a red cave.'"

Even so, after all these centuries, the town still has a population of only 1,200.

$5,000 Violin Restored To B.C. Woman

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 350-year-old violin, reported to be worth $5,000, has been recovered in a baggage room here after lying unclaimed for a year.

The violin is owned by Mrs. Clelland of Minster Island, B.C., who gave it to a man to bring here for repairs.

Police found the man, who said he had given the instrument to another man on a steamship. Then he had fallen sick and completely forgot about the violin.

"Gassy stomach embarrassed me" says man who loves his food.

"I'm a big fellow, with a big appetite. But after a good meal I used to have gas on the stomach so bad I couldn't help belching and burping. A druggist suggested Digestif Rennie Tablets. Now, after a big meal—I suck one or two Rennies. If you're embarrassed by burps and belches, try Rennie's," writes William J. Cook, Waterloo, Ont.

Don't let sour stomach or indigestion spoil a good meal—pick a Digestif Rennie Tablet. Rennie's are gentle, with a drip-by-drip action that neutralizes excess acids—soothes upset, gassy stomach. 25c at druggists. 50c.

COLD BRINGS SMOG BLANKET TO EDMONTON

EDMONTON (CP)—A heavy cloud of smoke-ice fog, as the weatherman calls it, hung over most of Edmonton early today as temperatures began to slip toward the 20-below mark.

The fog occurs as a smoke-like water vapor pours from the chimneys of Edmonton's gas-burning homes and from the exhausts of cars.

Calgary reported five inches of snow on the ground this morning as temperatures headed under the zero mark. Claresholm, in the foothills, has 12 inches, and Cowley, in the southwestern mountain-pass district, 15 inches.

Pakistan Landlords Get Marching Orders

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—The government of Pakistan province of Sind Tuesday dispossessed 124 big landlords of 1,100,000 acres of land, for which they will get no compensation. The estates, which range from 217,000 to 500 acres, will be broken up into parcels of 24 acres and given to the tenants, who will own land for the first time in the province's history. More than 1,000,000 people live on the land.

INSTALMENT PLAN TWINS MAKE MEDICAL HISTORY

DELAWARE, Ohio, (UP)—Mrs. Bernard Schnees learned today that her son born Jan. 28 will have a twin about March 22.

Mrs. Schnees' physician, Dr. James G. Parker, predicted the March 22 date for the birth of the second twin. He said two babies had been expected when the first child was born. The delayed birth of the second twin makes Mrs. Schnees' case one of the rarest in medical history.

The first of the expected twins, Douglas Lee Parker, was born almost two months prematurely.

Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Edna Quinney and Mrs. Pat Good. Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Dunstan skipped their rinks to unbeaten records in Island play. (Times Photos.)

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Names in the news, or why is it that every year about this time a bombshell bursts in the ranks of the basketballers? ... Norm Baker, the story goes, has been declared ineligible to compete in further playdowns because his registration was not filed in time. ... Could it be that clubs were not informed of the registration date for players until after that date had passed, or will someone in an official capacity please supply the answer. If they can, in the interest of the game?

Certainly no one has attempted to explain the situation yet. ... Meanwhile, the story continues, Charlie Boyd, who played a game or two here in the city, and is domiciled in the city, has been reported as being prepared to play for Cumberland in the Island "B" playdowns. ... If this is so, what gives? ... And there is also the case of Don Hill and Dave Williamson, who would be tremendous help to Howie Tooby's senior

A men's club ... there does not appear any valid reason why they can't play for the Orphans if they wish, unless it is that they are signed with Alberni? ... Certainly their participation with Normal School shouldn't prevent them from competing in playdowns leading to the Canadian championship? ... Now should it?

Later May Be Too Late

Andy Heberton gets his "night" next March 9 at Memorial Arena and coach Billy Reay of the Cougars is all for the idea. "It's just about time," says Reay, "because any later might be too late; I don't think Andy will be with us next year." No explanation of the remarks needed, let's make the event a whopping success. ... the note in the post concerned the appointment of Ernie Costain as commissioner of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association. ... Few folk realize that Ernie once was a member of a Dominion soccer championship team. ... he played for North Shore in 1937, the season the Reds won Canadian honors. ... Officialdom is nothing new to Ernie, a school teacher at Oak Bay High. ... He is a former secretary of the Canadian Legion Sports Council, played left half for the Legion team which defeated Victoria United in Province Cup competition in 1946. ... was playing manager of the Oak Bay city league team in 1948, and the last two years has been handling the reins of the Canadian Scottish Club. ... That he knows the game is evidenced by the fact that he has been connected with football for 34 of his 43 years. ... Wayne Brown is presently working out with the Cougars and, according to the club doctor, will be fit before the season's close.

Lynn Coming on Scouting Trip

The Boston Bruins don't seem to be having many problems in their bid for a play-off spot in the NHL this year, and to make sure that no problem presents itself in the future, general manager Lynn Patrick hits the coast next week for a look at WHL teams. ... Lynn is scheduled to arrive in the city on Monday.

And it could be that Frank Selke, the same Frank Selke who guides the destinies of the Montreal Canadiens, will be a visitor in the city before the current season expires. ... In answer to a query, Ed Dorosh, so far as we know, is still the property of Montreal Canadiens. ... Heberton is money in the bank.

Irvin Sets Stiff Goal For Goal-Getting Habs

(By The Canadian Press)

Calculating Dick Irvin estimates it cost his Montreal Canadiens $1,400 a goal last season in the National Hockey League—but there's hope that higher production will cut the expense this season.

LIONS SILENT, BUT

Galiffa Says

He'll Play

In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arnold Galiffa, National Football League quarterback whose contract is held by New York Giants, said Tuesday he will play with British Columbia Lions next season. In a telephone interview with the Vancouver Sun from his home in Donora, Pa., Galiffa said he had signed a Lions' contract but gave no further details. Lions officials would neither confirm nor deny the report. Galiffa, six feet two inches and 200 pounds, is a former West Point star and played briefly with San Francisco 49ers last year.

Chemainus Cagers

Whip McMorrans

Chemainus juvenile boys walloped McMorrans 62-40 in the first game of a two-game total-point semi-final series for the Lower Island basketball championship at Chemainus Tuesday night. Top scorer for Chemainus was D. Samuelson with 20 points. Gary Bishop scored 16 for McMorrans. The Up-Island team led 35-13 at half-time.

Second game in the series will be played at Sooke Thursday night at 8:30.

GOAL PROSPECTS

Individually, Irvin expects 40 goals each from Jean Beliveau, who now has 30; Rocket Richard, with 32 so far, and Boom Boom Geoffrion, now with 29. Only one NHL team has even had two 40-goalers—the 1929-30 Boston Bruins with Cooney Weiland and Dit Clapper.

Irvin's boys get a chance to add to their totals tonight, when Canadiens meet the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto in one of two league games.

In the other at New York, the fifth-place Rangers battle the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Sailors Take Title

Royal Canadian Navy is assured of the Tri-Service Basketball League championship. The sailors Saturday night scored their seventh straight victory, defeating Comox RCAF 55-38 at Comox.

CHRYSTIE, Wyo.—Hans Friedrich, Dortmund, Germany, knocked out George Harrison, Columbus, Ohio (6), heavyweight.

FLYERS HERE

Goal Leaders Meet Tonight

Edmonton 7, Vancouver 1; Calgary 3, Saskatoon 3

The leading triggers of east and west match firepower at Memorial Arena tonight as Victoria Cougars host Edmonton Flyers.

Bronco Horvath of the prairie kingpins of the Western Hockey League, the Edmonton Flyers, and Andy Heberton, the Cougar coast sharpie, are the rivals with the goal scoring lead at stake.

Horvath, also the league's leading pointmaker, got one goal Tuesday night as the Flyers bumped the Vancouver Canucks, 7-1, at Vancouver to bring his season's total to 37, the same as Heberton.

Edmonton's win, besides hurting the Canucks' playoff hopes, aided the Cougars, who now lead the Canucks by seven points, both clubs having played the same number of games.

STAMPS TIE

Meanwhile, Calgary Stampede were forced to accept a 3-3 decision with Saskatoon Quakers after having held a 3-0 lead at the end of the second period.

The third-place Stamps lead the Cougars by four points.

In Vancouver the Flyers led all the way, Enlo Scisizzi and Jerry Melnyk each getting two goals. Norm Ullman and Ray Hannigan got the others. Frank Ashworth scored for the Canucks.

BARLOW RECALLED

The Canucks also lost forward Hugh Barlow who was recalled by the Toronto Maple Leafs and ordered to report to Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL.

Pat Lundy sparked the Stamps to their lead in Calgary with two goals, Ray Barry netting the other.

Aggie Kukulowicz, Jack McLeod and Ray Manson tallied for the Quakers in the final period, Manson's tying goal coming a little over a minute from time.

Tonight's game at the Arena marks the first of three for the Cougars this week. They meet New Westminster Royals at New Westminster Thursday and host the Canucks here Saturday.

Game time is 8:30.

VALDES INJURED

COLUMBIA, N.J. (AP)—Nino Valdes, No. 1 contender for the heavyweight boxing title, suffered an ear injury during a workout here Tuesday.

The Cuban heavy will have to take things easy for three or four days because of a perforated ear drum.

Winter Golf Circuit Like Post-Grad Course

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Canadian and British golfers are using the winter tournament circuit as a post-graduate school of golf.

They are more interested in knowledge and experience than money. Most agree they are getting something money could not buy.

British golfers here for the first time are impressed with two aspects of the U.S. game: The hard work put in by the pros and their superiority from within 150 yards of the hole.

The group of five Englishmen will play through the Houston, Tex., tournament and then head for home, their eyes opened by U.S. methods.

The young English players were called upon to play an 18-hole qualifying round before being admitted to the Tucson open tourney proper, which starts Thursday. John Pritchett and John Jacob qualified Tuesday with three-under-par 69s.

Tony Harmon made it easily with 70. Peter Allis and Herman Hunt were exempt from qualifying as Ryder Cup players.

SOME CANADIANS MISS

The eight Canadians didn't fare as well. Gerry Kesseling, Kitchener, Ont.; Al Balding, Robert Dean, Eddie Nizuek, all of Toronto, and Jack Kay, Montreal, all qualified.

Bob Wyllie, Calgary; Hal Butler, Toronto, and Jim Walker, Halifax, missed.

Pritchett, 23, said: "The trip has definitely been worthwhile. He couldn't have obtained the experience hitting a ball in London. It would be quite proper to say we have been attending a post-graduate school."

TV SPORT PROGRAMS MAY BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Warren Magnuson said today he has asked U.S. Senate investigators to assemble data "on reports of fixed fights and other complaints from captive audiences of televised sports events."

"We may have to hold some hearings later on this," the Washington Democrat said in an interview. He is chairman of the Senate commerce committee. "If we do," he added, "it will not be an investigation of boxing or other sports as such, but rather a look at the radio-TV programs that go into our homes."

Pin Sharpies Sharp—Too Late

By RON COULTER

City senior tenpinners fared poorly Sunday in the city team championships. But they did quite nicely Tuesday night in regular league action, thank you.

Commercial keggers walked smartly away with top honors in the city event. Eric Badminton hitting for a 632 total to pace National Motors to the team title with a 2,896 triple, including 369 handicap.

Badminton was the only trundler to hit over the 600 mark for the day.

However, Tuesday night

the senior boys set the alleys on fire, literally speaking, in an attempt to regain lost prestige.

They earned new respect, that's for sure, and at the same time gave warning of what could happen this Sunday in the doubles and singles events.

Members of the Club 600

These were the accomplishments Tuesday night at Gibsons:

... Wilbur Webb cracked out games of 247, 213 and 213 for a league record triple of 673, eclipsing the former mark of 671 held by Andy Palmer.

... Ron Coulter shot singles of 228, 229 and 180 for a 637 total.

... Youthful Dave Doolittle pounded out singletons of 180, 235 and 214 for 629.

... Wilf Johnston, defending association singles champ, hit for 182, 201 and 234 in posting a 617 series.

Palmer chalked up singles of 172, 203 and 235 to hit 610.

George Motion whipped up games of 177, 231 and 198 for a 606 triple.

Willshire Heat team scored games of 899, 1,018 and 994 for a scratch total of 2,911, enough to win the city tourney without the aid of handicap had they been in such a mood Sunday.

Not To Be Sneezed at Either

Other highs were rolled by Ron Wilson, 595; Bill Norris, 579; George Brown, 576; Dick Bowles, 557, and Cliff Morgan at 550.

Wilson, 229; Norris, 214; Morgan, 212; W. Spershot, 203; Len Parsons, 201, and Brown, 200, hit for commendable singles.

In fivepin action at Gibson's, Ron Bremner was top man with a big 848 total, while S. Jenkins posted a 784 total and D. Jenkins shot 712.

At Capital City, Peggy Taylor paced the women with a 712 series, while Cec McRae, 739; Harry Cool, 777; Cy Wallis, 738; Don Corbett and Ken Smith, 705, and Bus Stoddart, with series of 702 and 701, were tops for the men.

Football Situation Confusing As Ever

By JIM PEACOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Anytime now the west is going to predict Grey Cup victory next November. And with apparent good reason.

On the surface at least, the eastern football picture is so confused it is difficult to see how any of the Big Four football league clubs could muster up a Grey Cup champion by next fall.

The latest shocker was Ottawa Rough Riders' report Tuesday night that the Big Four has rescinded a decision to honor player options held this year by U.S. National Football League clubs. This wasn't announced at the time the decision was taken.

DON'T NEED NFL MEN

Montreal Alouettes, eastern champions last season, have indicated all along that they don't need NFL players to field another winner; that they have an ample net out to catch the necessary talent elsewhere.

Still, this on top of other evidence of general confusion, is not too convincing that the east will be as strong as before.

The situation developed this way:

Toronto Argonauts, out of the eastern playoffs for two years, announced they would not invite back for 1955 any of their 1954 American imports, but instead would get a whole new set out of the NFL.

This decision now is being reconsidered.

The NFL, after several seasons of complaining about Canadian raiding, began a turn-about action that coaxed two of Montreal's prize Americans—Tex Coulter and Alex Webster—back to the U.S. and got Al's quarterback Sam Etcheverry signed to two contracts, one in each country. NFL teams also made offers to some Canadian players.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa, fearful that the rich—Montreal and Toronto—might force them to spend so much money for playing talent that they would be forced out of business, lined together to cut down on importing.

At its annual meeting in mid-January, the Big Four, with Argos yelping foul, voted 3-1 to declare ineligible for Big Four play any player under option or contract to an NFL club. Argos objected that the ruling was retroactive and that they already had signed several players.

The league governors studied the problem, then gave it back to the annual meeting, which reconvened in Montreal Saturday.

This meeting announced the league had decided Argos will retain four of the seven players they say they have signed and the league will take over the other three for disposition.

Habs Invite Maple Leafs To Tour Europe

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal Canadiens Tuesday invited Toronto Maple Leafs to join them in a playing tour of Europe after the National Hockey League playoffs next spring.

The invitation was extended by coach Dick Irvin of the Canadiens to general manager Hap Day of the Leafs at a press dinner here.

Irvin said the Canadiens were planning the trip, with or without another NHL team, and that Montreal sports columnist Andy O'Brien, who is flying to Europe next week, will be commissioned to investigate possible playing dates in England and on the continent.

Day said the invitation is a policy matter for Maple Leaf Gardens president Conn Smythe, who is in Florida.

Smythe, in a telephone interview, said he had discussed such an excursion with Montreal managing director Frank Selke, but there wasn't enough money involved.

OTTAWA (CP)—T.P. Tommy Gorman said Tuesday he has leased the Ottawa Auditorium from the new owners for two years and will continue to operate it as a sports centre.

FOXY FOX FOILS HOUNDS

NEWTON ABBOT, Eng. (AP)—The South Devon foxhounds chased a fox through a cop's backyard—then failed to look before they leaped a five-foot wall.

The hounds cleared the wall all right but landed smack in the Leman River. The fox, meanwhile, was foxy in a bramble patch beneath the wall.

All the 16 hounds might have drowned in the swift flowing river except for some girls who helped pull them out.

50,000 DISTRIBUTED

New RCMP Booklet Aids Fight Crime

A campaign against mounting crime in Canada is being waged by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

As an experiment aimed at reducing petty crime incidence, the RCMP has begun distribution of 50,000 booklets entitled "Crime in Your Community," showing by word and picture how businessmen and housekeepers can help prevent thefts by giving greater attention to security of home and business.

Domestic records of the last five years show that car thefts have increased 57.1 per cent; breaking, entering and theft 37 per cent and false pretences such as cheque forgery 15 per cent.

Most of the 20-page booklets will go to storekeepers in eight provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—and 70 municipalities policed by the force.

"We hope the booklet will help people to exercise some care with their belongings," says Assistant Commissioner C.

W. Harvison, director of operations and criminal investigations.

It shows how temptation to thieves may be removed by greater care with open cash drawers, forgotten jewelry in washrooms, open display cases and insecure doors.

J. R. W. Bordeleau, superintendent in charge of criminal investigation branch, "E" Division, Victoria, says: "This is an experiment in preventive police work from which it is hoped encouraging results will be obtained."

"Experiments along similar lines have been carried out in England with marked success and in consequence some forces there have set up special 'crime prevention departments' which are now carrying out publicity along the crime prevention theme."

If the experiment is successful, it is thought the RCMP will establish a similar crime prevention bureau.

Giant Navy Bomber Explodes; 2 Dead, 18 Hurt

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A giant intercontinental battle plane, one of the United States Air Force's B-36 bombers, exploded and burned Tuesday night, killing two men and injuring 18, four severely.

The plane burst into flames soon after its landing gear touched soft earth at the end of a Carswell air force base runway. Explosions followed.

Crash crews battled the gasoline-fed flames for an hour before extinguishing them.

Meanwhile, seven of the big aircraft—about three stories high at the rudder—were diverted to Fort Worth's nearby Carter field. They were not able to land at wreckage-strewn Carswell.

It builds up more defenses against respiratory infections which make these children easy prey for asthmatic sieges, he said.

Biggest War Games Due This Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The army will hold its biggest peacetime manoeuvres this summer at Camp Gagetown, N.B.

It announced today that more than 10,000 soldiers from all parts of Canada will concentrate at Gagetown for six weeks of intensive training.

Eight of the army's 15 battalions will participate. The troops, most of them from units of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division, will start moving into the new 427-square-mile camp about mid-June. Manoeuvres will start the first week of July.

Soldiers will live in the field under canvas for the entire training period. Permanent installations now under construction will not be used by the training force.

Maj. Gen. John Rockingham, commander of the 1st Division, and his staff will move to Gagetown from Camp Petawawa, Ont., at the same time as advance elements of other units.

Ken McAllister Elected President Of Cameramen

Ken McAllister was elected chairman of the Victoria branch of the Professional Photographers' Association of B.C. at an annual meeting Monday.

Other officers elected were: R. L. Colby, vice-chairman; S. N. Y. Simpson, secretary; and J. Price, treasurer. Executive committee: Paul Jonas, R. Hale, L. Holmes, H. Goertz and Robert Fort.

Gordon Pinkerton, provincial president, addressed the meeting.

CPR Accepts Dismissal of Appeal By Victoria Court of Revision

Canadian Pacific Railway will accept the decision of the Victoria court of revision which dismissed Tuesday an appeal against "too high" assessment.

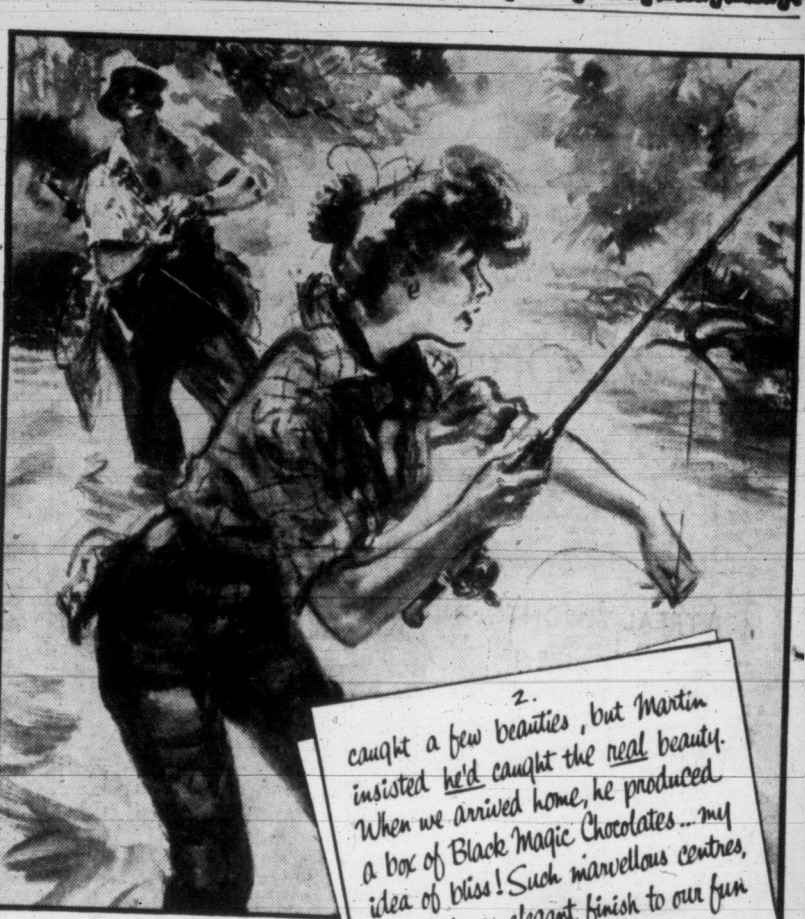

Vancouver officials of the company said that submissions to the court were made as a "holding" appeal, in case the company wanted to pursue the matter later. "We are not pressing the appeal," they added.

The court of revision upheld assessments on CPR property here of $352,000 for land and $931,000 for improvements.

A letter read to the court, listed 10 legal points held to be grounds for appeal. But no one appeared to plead the company's case prior to court adjournment. It was dismissed, in higher courts.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

A constituent who is apparently sympathetic with some of the trials and tribulations of putting words on paper and getting them into print has sent along a clipping from the News of the North, Yellowknife's own newspaper.

Soft music, professor, please, while we all shed a tear for the trials and tribulations of the editor.

Getting out a paper is no picnic. If we print jokes, people say we are silly. If we don't, they say we are too serious. If we stick close to the office all day, we should be out and around hunting material.

If we go out and try to hustle up some news, we ought to be on the job in the office where people can find us. If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate genius.

And if we do print them, the paper is filled with junk! If we edit the other fellow's write-up, we're too critical. If we clip things from other papers we are too lazy to write for ourselves.

If we don't, we're accused of being enamored of our own staff. Now, like as not some guy will say we swiped this from some other paper.

WE DID!

Ah, well, you can't please all of the people all of the time. And I sometimes think you can't please any of the people any of the time.

The latest complaint at Between Times comes from several quarters. Between Times is being blamed for the advent of "winter" to Victoria.

This is because Between Times recently reported an interview with a groundhog, in which it was stated there is no such thing as winter in this, the banana belt of Canada.

My critics say: "Now look what you've done. You have brought on winter."

So I will try to straighten things out. I now make a fearless forecast: It will snow heavily tonight, followed by freezing temperatures for two weeks.

THAT should bring on spring in a hurry.

Deputy fire chief Jim Bayliss leaves today for a month-long civil defense instructor's rescue course at Canadian Civil Defense School.

DROODLES

This Droodle sent in by Norm Noveroske, Michigan City, Ind., makes me wonder if the Lone Ranger ever does take his mask off. Does he wear it Sunday afternoons when he's just lounging around the prairie or playing Canasta with Tom? On Saturday nights do you suppose he has a special shower cap with the eyes cut out or does he just forget about bathing altogether (this could explain why he's lonely)? Does he wear it when he gets a haircut? I sure hope Mr. Ranger never gets near-sighted like me. I don't think kids would take to a Cowboy who wore a horn-rimmed mask and kept hopping onto a cactus instead of his horse. (However, if this happened, it might put more zing in his "Hi-Yo.")

THE LONE RANGER

Jubilee's Tiniest Grows

Believed to be the smallest surviving baby ever born at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Debbie Raynor "weighed in" at one pound eight ounces on her birthday, May 26, 1954. Hospital authorities and doctors call her progress to her present 13 pounds 12 ounces and robust good health nothing less than miraculous. Debbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Raynor of Victoria, was 3½ months in incubator, left hospital weighing six pounds eight ounces. Hospital board has certified Debbie "smallest ever." (Times Photo.)

CENTRAL SAANICH PROTESTS EXPECTED

'Musher' Wants to Start Cemetery for Pets

Leland "Eskimo" Abbott, who some years ago pushed from the Arctic to New York on a wager, has asked Central Saanich council for permission to establish a cemetery for animal pets on his Veynes Road property.

The location is well known as the site of Mr. Abbott's "trading post."

Council found that no by-law exists to deal with such a problem, and decided to withhold action pending the possible recording of protests by neighbors.

It was on his long-distance trip by dog team that Mr. Abbott met a veterinarian who operated a pet cemetery in the United States, and decided he would start the same kind of project some day.

He would operate it similar to others in the United States, where fees are charged for burials. Mr. Abbott plans on devoting about two acres of his 9.6-acre property to the cemetery.

Icy Roads, Sidewalks Send Eight Persons to Hospital for Treatment

Icy roads and slippery sidewalks today were blamed for a rash of accidents which sent eight persons to hospital for treatment. An elderly pedestrian was injured Tuesday night.

Pedestrians and cyclists came out second best to motorists this morning as icy roads and walks proved treacherous.

One man and two women suffered fractures when they slipped and fell. Two young cyclists were treated for lacerations after being spilled from their bikes.

An eight-year-old boy and an elderly couple were injured in car accidents.

Bobby Turner, 8, 4450 Quadra, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with a fractured bone in his foot about 8:30 a.m. after being in collision with a car at Blanshard and Herald Streets.

Police said the young boy had been sliding on icy surface of cement triangle situated at the intersection with his brother, Jimmy, aged nine, when Bobby stepped onto the road in front of an auto driven south on Blanshard by Basil Prevost, 4100 Gordon Head Road.

Mrs. Philip Winn, 125 Wildwood, suffered a fractured right arm and her husband received a minor knee injury when the car which Mr. Winn was driving went out of control while making a left turn onto Burdett at Quadra Street.

The car mounted the curb and crashed into front steps of Christ Church Cathedral about 11:15 a.m.

Harold Parrott, 2970 Westdown, suffered a fractured elbow when he slipped and fell. Mrs. Dorothy Humphrey, 1144 Esquimalt Road, received a broken left wrist when she fell in the Cedar Hill Road area.

Another woman fractured her wrist when she fell.

Jack W. Stewart, 59, of 1565 Elgin, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday night with lacerations to forehead and chin and a fractured thumb after he was struck by a car shortly after 10 p.m. at Cormorant and Government Streets.

Police said today driver of the car was Daniel G. S. Walters, Latonia Road.

3 Plead Guilty To Armed Theft

Sentence Meted Out Next Wednesday

Pleading guilty to the Jan. 22 armed robbery of the Sooke Hi-Way Grocery store near 17-Mile House, three men were remanded by Judge J. B. Clearhugh in County Court today to Feb. 16 for sentence.

The robbers are Thomas Albert Lane, 33, Luxton; James Donald Goudie, 22, Sooke, and Leo William Seppala, 18, Saseenos.

James Proudfoot, counsel for Seppala, asked the judge to sentence the young man to the New Haven Borstal School for young offenders. He said Seppala had no previous criminal convictions.

The three men were arrested by RCMP Colwood detachment officers after they held up the grocery store owned by 79-year-old proprietor, Mrs. Patience Norman.

One man carried a rifle and in the robbery a shot was fired which pierced the floor of the store. They took $33 in cash, cigarettes, cookies and chocolate bars and made a getaway after ripping the receiver from the telephone.

The three men were masked. Police arrested the trio shortly after the holdup.

Abolish Sales Tax CCL Asks

B.C. Federation of Labor (CCL) today urged the provincial government to abolish the five per cent sales tax on a progressive reduction of one per cent a year for five years.

The request was made in a brief handed MLAs in Victoria. In previous years the federation's brief has gone directly to the cabinet. B.C. Federation spokesmen said the cabinet refused to give a definite date for a hearing this year.

The brief said the sales tax "has been recognized by most competent economists as a retrogressive form of taxation which bears unduly on the lower and middle income groups."

It said "this tax is a direct cut of the purchasing power of a large number of citizens who can ill-afford such a reduction."

The brief also urged establishment of some form of committee or commission composed of one jurist and at least two educational or religious authorities to determine whether separate schools should receive aid from the provincial government.

"We as trade unionists are obliged to fight any form of discrimination which may exist," the brief said.

Leg Shackles Hold Accused In Appeal Court

Had Escaped From Vancouver Trial

RCMP officers made certain that Gordon Albert Thompson, 28, of Vancouver, would not escape when he appeared before the B.C. Court of Appeal at the Bastion Street Courthouse today to appeal against convictions of armed robbery and kidnapping.

The accused, serving a 15-year penitentiary term, was shackled by the legs with a heavy chain. It was only with difficulty that he was able to shuffle to the court room to plead his case.

Police took such precautions because Thompson escaped from the Vancouver courthouse last year. He slipped his handcuffs while in court and walked to short-lived freedom. The bones of the thin, wiry hands of the accused are double jointed. This enabled him to slip them out of the handcuffs, and escape.

RECAPTURED

He was captured several weeks later after taking part in a hold-up of a Safeway store. He is here to appeal conviction on a charge arising from that robbery.

But appeal court dismissed Thompson's appeal on the grounds there was no evidence to support his contentions he did not take part in the hold-up. The court, however, granted the accused the right to appeal against his sentence. It will hear him again on this issue next Wednesday.

He left the courthouse in shackles, with a guard of two armed policemen.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Which contain the most starch, sweet potatoes or white potatoes? Mrs. Z.

A.—In 100 grams of Irish or white potatoes there are 19.1 grams of carbohydrates, mostly starch. In 100 grams of sweet potatoes there are 27.9 grams of carbohydrates, including sugar. On a basis of calories 100 grams of white potatoes give 83 calories, and sweet potatoes 133 calories, the sweet being higher in Vitamin A.

Q.—Does the main line of the Kettle Valley Railway follow the Coquihalla Pass? Mrs. M. M. A.—Yes, that railway, connecting Midway on the Kettle River and Hope on the Fraser, runs through the Coquihalla Pass.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Freak Electrical Accident Sends Two to Hospital

A freak electrical accident at the naval armament depot, HMC Dockyard, Tuesday sent two civilian workers to hospital with flash burns.

Bert Hunt, 420 Obed, is still in St. Joseph's Hospital with burns to face and neck. His condition is reported good. His fellow worker, George Warren, 944 Milner, was discharged after treatment to burns around his left eye.

The men were working on a pole transformer when a "flash-over" occurred, and they were caught in the flash of the electric spark.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE Diane Richardson symbolizes drive to inoculate about 7,000 district children against polio. Registration must be complete by March 1. Needling starts April 18.

AIRLIFT FROM TORONTO PRECEDES FIRST NEEDLE

7,000 Children to Get Salk Anti-Polio Shots, Starting April 18

By PETE LOUDON

An airlift from Toronto will precede the first needle when district public health nurses launch a series of 21,000 anti-polio injections here April 18.

That's three shots each for 1,795 Grade One pupils and about 5,000 pre-school youngsters in the area served by Saanich, Oak Bay, Victoria-Esquimalt and naval health services.

Federal and provincial governments will split the cost of the new Salk vaccine. A series of three injections for each child will cost $1.50.

The airlift is necessary because, like "manna from heaven," which the vaccine might well prove to be, it is only potent for a short time after it is produced.

And all the vaccine in Canada comes from Connaught Laboratories in Toronto, where it is made under rigid government control. Once it arrives here, it must be kept under refrigeration until used.

A meeting of public health officials at City Health Centre Tuesday drew plans for registration by parents. No child can receive the Salk protection from polio without written consent.

All district churches, schools and PTAs will aid in circulating forms to parents.

Any parents of children in the five-to-six age group who do not receive forms should phone 4-0571 before March 1. That's the deadline for registration.

All injections will be given at schools for Grade One pupils by the visiting school nurse. Mothers of pre-school youngsters who are five will be directed to take their children to centrally located schools at appointed times.

Medical health officials point out that injections will begin the week of April 18. The second needle will be given a week later and the third after another month.

The vaccine is introduced through upper arm muscles and produces no noticeable reaction other than a slight swelling. Even redness around the puncture is rare.

The injection is described as "very safe" and reluctant parents should contact their family doctor for advice. However, Salk vaccine is not available yet to doctors in private practice or to drug stores.

The watery-pink liquid is produced from living cells. It has been administered to 654,000 children in Canada and the United States in the last year and none of the recipients have contracted polio. Still considered unproven, it is also considered the best weapon yet against the disease.

In this province, 42,000 children in the age group most often afflicted by the disease will receive the injections at a total cost of $62,000.

Complete records will be maintained to assess the effectiveness of the project as has been done since it was started by Dr. Jonas Salk in Pittsburgh. Total U.S. production has been bought by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in the United States.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!
Crystal at Sale Prices!

By PENNY SAVER

Wandering through town this morning I came smack up against a sign that said "Sale." Not so strange in itself, but this little store was one of my favorites, and I was especially pleased to think you and I could receive the benefits of sale prices here.

I discovered that they were selling discontinued and odd pieces of crystal. Perfect pieces for those of you who wish to complete or add to your set of crystal. Lily of the Valley sherbert glasses, which were $1 each are now 50 cents. And sherbert plates at $1.25, are now 75 cents.

There are also vases in classic designs. One that attracted my attention was the "symphony." These vases were $3.50, now $1.50. They are of pure crystal and designed in sweeping lines. Goblets in old or modern thistle pattern, selling regularly at $1.50, are now $1.

For a special gift for that special man, you can buy a personalized ash tray of pure crystal. On the bottom, in script, block, or English style, his name or initial is cut. The one I saw was only $2.25. Italian pottery is making a big hit here in Victoria. I saw some today that really looked good enough to eat. . . it was pink and frothy, just like cotton candy. On the rough surface of the pieces, there were black pen-and-ink drawings. They're very modern and smart looking. The odd-shaped planters and vases were shown off to their best advantage with the lovely pink flowers that were placed in them. Jugs were also featured, with different shaped handles and spouts. They are various prices ranging from $6 to $7.95.

MISS CHROW, REGENT

Work With Blind Citizens
Main Project of Chapter

Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, retiring regent, was presented with a bouquet of daffodils, tulips and heather by new regent, Miss Constance Chrow, at annual meeting of Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, IODE, last evening in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Special guests were Mrs. J. L. Gates, Victoria Municipal regent and second vice-president of Provincial Chapter; Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, provincial convener of Immigration and Canadianization; Miss Dorothy Stark, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and Miss Descon, secretary of CNIB.

Secretary's report, given by Mrs. Astrid Head, showed money-making projects as a bridge party, raffish at E. C. Forest Products Fair, garden tea, bazaar and bingo, Christmas raffle and sale of cook books. A total of $1,066.19 was realized from these events.

It was reported that chief project of the chapter was work for blind citizens. During the year, donations were made to aid in surgical expenses and dental expenses for the blind. A chime clock was placed in the Braille room of the CNIB headquarters in memory of late chapter member, Miss Beth Littlehales.

A patient at Veterans' Hospital was also adopted. Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. O. P. Fowler, showed receipts as $1,272.88 and disbursements, $937.90. Educational secretary, Miss Allison Chrow, reported $100 had been contributed to secondary education.

A continuing subscription of monthly recordings was presented to Macdonald Park School, and calendars sent to the two adopted schools, Macdonald Park School in Victoria and the school at Stewart, B.C.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BROIL BEAN SANDWICHES,
A LA WAIKIKI

Hot sandwiches of beans and pork get a happy reception in any crowd. Make the sandwiches Hawaiian style; add pineapple chunks to the beans. Mix about 1/2 cup of drained pineapple chunks with a can of beans and pork (1 1/2 cups). Spread beans on six slices of bread (toasted on one side). Slide under broiler and heat till bubbly. Top each hot sandwich with crisp slices of bacon for extra goodness. Serve with potato chips, pickles and carrot sticks.

DO YOU LIKE ORGAN MUSIC?

By GEORGE E. WILLIS

At the age of fourteen years, I played a pump organ by ear at Theydon Bois, Essex, England. My parents could not afford to give me music lessons as I was one of eight children. The love of organ music grew as I listened to the great organs including Canterbury and Westminster Cathedrals and the Crystal Palace. When I came to Canada at the age of eighteen I went to hear all the great organs of Eastern Canada, New York City and the Salt Lake City Tabernacle. I had always hoped that I would be able to own a small pipe organ.

However, that was not to be, as they are expensive, so now have settled for a Baldwin Electronic organ, the first one to be shipped to Victoria. This I found to be the nearest to true organ voices. It has many stops which are all marked the same as the pipe organ with flutes, strings, clarinet, oboe horn, etc., and has two manuals and foot pedals. Most music sounds good on this organ which has a beautiful rich tone. Anyone who can read music can quickly learn to play. The cost is only a little more than a good piano.

I now have the agency for the Baldwin organs and pianos for Vancouver Island. Come to our office at 600 Courtney Street, just up from the TCA office. Miss Gubbers of our office will gladly give you a demonstration. Play it yourself.

MEETS GOVERNMENT

Succession Duty Act Under Study
National Council of Women Told

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has told the National Council of Women that the Succession Duty Act is under study and that council suggestions for increased exemptions will be considered, Mrs. Allan Turner Bone of Montreal, council president, said Tuesday.

The council met with cabinet ministers earlier to present resolutions passed at its annual meeting last June. It asked that an exemption of $50,000 be allowed from all estates, and that widows be permitted to exempt half a husband's estate plus $50,000 of the remainder.

Estates under $50,000 now are exempt, and those exceeding $50,000 are taxed on the entire amount. The council also urged that adopted children be considered natural children for succession duty purposes.

ASK EQUAL PAY
A federal law assuring women equal pay for equal work also was sought. The government informed council representatives the labor department's women's bureau is collecting information on this subject, Mrs. Bone said. Other recommendations included:

1. Appointment of women to immigrant selection board in Europe and exercise of "greatest care" in selection of immigrants. Mrs. Bone said the ministers, led by acting prime minister Towe, agreed care in selection was desirable but did not comment on the suggestion to appoint women to the boards.

2. Setting up of a Canadian coast guard service in British Columbia coastal waters to cut down on loss of life from shipwrecks. Mrs. Bone said the government replied that present facilities directed by the RCAF search and rescue service carry out the same function.

3. Donation of part of Canada's wheat surplus to underprivileged countries as a gesture against communism. Cabinet reaction to this was that the suggestion is impracticable as most of the underprivileged areas of Asia eat

WOMEN NEED PUSH INTO PUBLIC LIFE

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Most women need a shove to get into politics, in the opinion of Elizabeth Janzen, chairman of the women's advisory committee of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

But once they're in, she says, women are invaluable supporters and enthusiastic canvassers. Twice a federal candidate in Waterloo North, Miss Janzen says she was "as apathetic as the next woman" until a friend dragged her to a political meeting some years ago.

Plan Chinese Dinner at Yacht Club

Mrs. John Wallace, right, and Mrs. Doug Middleton, second from right, are co-conveners of the committee in charge of arrangements for a Chinese buffet supper sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to Royal Victoria Yacht Club and to be held on Saturday

Feb. 19, in the clubhouse. Auxiliary president, Mrs. K. L. Boorman, second from left, and Mrs. A. J. Burns, left, are assisting with plans. The supper is always one of the gayest and most informal parties of the early spring season at the Yacht Club.

Hearts of People Must be Changed Before Ideal World Becomes Fact

An earnest appeal to women, to assist in making this a "truly Christian world" was made yesterday afternoon in Metropolitan United Church by Mrs. W. H. W. Hardwick, Vancouver. She was speaking at opening session of the 29th annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Hardwick, president of the B.C. Assembly of the WMS, pointed out that it is not the physical world that must be changed, but the hearts of the people if we are to ever have a Christian world.

"If we were truly Christ-like there would be no poor housing, hungry peoples, broken homes, liquor and drug traffic, and above all, no wars," she stated. First step in creating a Christian world is for man to accept Christian stewardship, the speaker said, and to accept this stewardship we must first assess our own lives.

"We are given bodies, minds and spirits," she pointed out, "but what we do with them is our own responsibility. We can abuse, neglect and waste our lives or develop them to the highest degree."

"Not all are equipped alike," the speaker pointed out, "but what we have we can improve. We inherited our physical, mental and spiritual qualities or received them in our early training, but we do have to account for the development of those qualities."

How does performance compare with assets? Mrs. Hardwick answered that question by listing the following phases of Christian living: Thinking of others, a desire for service, the way we live, the things we do, our expressions of kindness, sympathy and advice.

"We must be continually struggling, groping and learning, if we are ever to attain perfection," she concluded.

The speaker was introduced and thanked by the president, Mrs. E. R. Bewell.

Following Mrs. Hardwick's address, Mrs. J. W. Collins gave the book news and a panel interview was presented with Miss C. Lothian discussing periodicals; Mrs. J. W. Collins, literature; Mrs. G. Williamson, library, and Mrs. G. W. Beall, the press.

WMS Meets All Commitments

Treasurer's report given by Miss P. More at this morning's session of the Victoria Presbyterial, WMS of the United Church in Canada, held in Metropolitan United Church, showed total receipts as $13,088.59.

A sum of $12,714.14 was remitted to the branch secretary at the end of the year, being $514.14 more than the previous year.

Miss G. Beall welcomed delegates and worship was taken by Miss Agatha Coultres. A day of the year in executive was given by Mrs. H. J. Armistage and a dedicatory prayer by Mrs. W. G. Frith. Christian stewardship report was given by Mrs. J. L. Clerihue.

A panel discussion included the following reports: Christian citizenship, Mrs. B. Wellwood; community friendship, Mrs. G. Mitchell; associate members, Mrs. W. B. Johnstone, and supply, Mrs. H. E. Thomson. A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. William Allen.

Children of the Chinese kindergarten gave a group of songs and Rev. Laura Butler conducted a communion service assisted by missionaries Margaret Gay, Eunie Peters, Agatha Coultres and Agnes Quinn.

Greetings from the WA Presbyterial were given at the noon luncheon served in the hall.

Growth of YWCA Shown in Reports President of the Board Re-Elected

Mrs. H. J. Seats was re-elected president of the board of directors of the YWCA, in annual meeting Tuesday evening.

Other officers are Mrs. H. C. Small, first vice-president; Mrs. William Blair, second; Mrs. F. McClement, treasurer; Mrs. R. E. Foster, recording secretary; Mrs. W. G. Hamilton, corresponding.

Re-elected to the board for a three-year term were Mrs. A. C. Brand, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. F. A. Lindsay and Mrs. Small; elected for the three-year term, Mrs. H. Holdsworth, Mrs. A. H. Sheard and Mrs. E. E. Livesey; elected for a two-year term to fill unexpired terms: Mrs. A. D. McKenzie and Mrs. K. MacDonald.

Named chairmen of committees were Mrs. P. J. Mulcahy, finance; Mrs. Small, program; Mrs. F. Bliss, residence and dining room; Mrs. A. C. Brand, travellers' aid; Mrs. Seats, personnel; Mrs. W. G. Hamilton, world service; Mrs. Foster, nominating; Mrs. Small, young adult groups; Mrs. Foster, publicity; and Mrs. A. G. H. Tisdall, membership.

In her president's report, Mrs. Seats paid tribute to the many volunteer leaders and teachers of craft classes who assist with YWCA work.

Executive director, Miss Mae Brown, added an extra accolade when she said in her report that "the large growth in membership of our junior groups is a proof of the ability of our volunteer workers, each of these is a professional in his or her own field."

Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. T. V. LeHuray, showed $400 received from the provincial government; $19,405 from Community Chest; $5,855.42 from the dining room and residence, and $1,456.49 from donations and other revenue. Disbursements amounted to $25,478.41.

Dietitian and residence director's report given by Miss Oonah Hewson, showed 33,098 meals served and special catering such as luncheons, dinners and teas given to 2,769 people.

Travelers' Aid report, given by Mrs. F. Bliss, told of 2,139 services given to 2,139 persons at the CPR wharf waiting-room. Among these were "travelers" who spoke only a foreign language and for whom interpreters had to be found; children traveling alone and requiring care before leaving or on arrival until called for and British women seeking accommodation within reach of their limited means.

Other reports were given by Mrs. Muriel Bishop, program;

Mrs. Beverley Smith Again Heads O. M. Jones Chapter

At annual meeting of Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, IODE, held Tuesday at the Blue Room, Broad Street, Mrs. Beverley Smith was re-elected regent, with Mrs. George Warren, first vice-regent; Mrs. A. B. McNeill, second; Mrs. G. H. Price, secretary; Mrs. T. G. Clarke, treasurer, and Mrs. S. C. MacDonald, educational secretary. Offices of Echoes secretary and standard bearer will be confirmed later.

Reports showed the chapter had a successful year with an increase in membership and total receipts, $468.72. Disbursements amounted to $454.94, principal donation being $93.75 toward furnishing of a sun-room at Gorge Road Hospital.

Mrs. F. Hilliard, retiring treasurer, also told of $30 being devoted to educational work and $25.86 to welfare. From the milk fund, which is the chapter's special project, $100 had gone to the city health officer for purchase of milk for undernourished children.

Mrs. C. B. Mooney, secretary, showed chief fund-raising activities as a Bonnet Tea, rummage sale, coffee party, food hamper and raffle of two petit point pictures donated by Mrs. H. Menzies.

Mrs. D. Weaver, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Menzies, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. William Ellis and Mrs. P. E. Corby also gave reports. Mrs. Smith in her address, stressed the need for an increasing membership to share the responsibilities of the Order and extended thanks to outgoing officers and all who assisted her in the past year.

A luncheon preceded the meeting and seated at the head table with officers of the chapter, were Mrs. J. L. Gates, municipal regent, who spoke briefly; Miss Ruth Jones, who brought greetings from her mother, Mrs. O. M. Jones, honorary regent, and Mrs. Gwen Downes, who entertained the members with two sparkling monologues.

Valentine Tea—At the Women's Benefit Association Review No. 1 meeting held recently, plans were made for a Valentine Tea to be held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Monday at 2.30 p.m. Games will be enjoyed and door prizes given. Afternoon tea will be served. President, Mrs. A. Taylor presided.

Plane Spotters To See Movie on Famous Bombers

Members of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.) have been invited en masse to the opening run of "The Purple Plain," the movie story of Britain's famous Mosquito bombers in the Second World War.

About 45 men and women of the radar communications squadron will attend the Odeon showing February 18, and will sit together in the theatre.

As part of the unit's current recruiting campaign, an information table in the theatre lobby will be manned by squadron members, who will answer queries from prospective reserve applicants.

The role of a Canadian squadron leader in the RAF during the last war will be played in the J. Arthur Rank film by Gregory Peck.

Many of the Mosquito bombers used by the Allies were built in Canada from Canadian plywood, and were at one time the fastest bombers in the air.

NO HOME-BODY, SHE

'Bored, Restless' Betty Resuming Show Business

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Betty Hutton ended her brief retirement today by announcing she was "restless and bored" with being a homemaker and is going back to work.

The volatile blonde, who quit show business last November in a flurry of sentimental farewells and tears, said she got "blue" sitting around and recently acquired a new agent, MCA, to get her movie jobs.

"I told you so," but to heck with 'em," declared Betty. "I can't stay out of show business. The last couple of weeks I've been a nervous wreck, blue and depressed."

At Betty's "farewell" appearance at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas last November she said, "It's more important to be a woman than a star."

But today she confessed her try at staying home to care for her two children was a flop.

"I moved to another house at first so I was busy," she said. "But once I got settled, I had nothing to do all day. With the energy I've got, sitting around was rough."

Betty said she now realizes she quit last fall because she was "terribly hurt" over critical blasts against her NBC-TV "spectacular" show and she was "very run down and exhausted."

The actress said she still plans to marry record executive Alan Livingston "within the next three weeks."

Guglielmi, Redskins Agree to Disagree

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—All-American quarter-back Ralph Guglielmi of Notre Dame and Washington's head coach, Joe Kuharich, failed to agree on terms Tuesday, but will meet again in a few weeks to further discuss a Redskins contract for the Irish star.

Guglielmi, first-round draft choice of Washington of the National Football League, was believed striving for a $15,000 salary. Several Canadian teams were understood to be willing to pay him what he asks.

HUTCHISON

By negotiation it could have possessed all its objectives, except, of course, Formosa. And in the long run, though it could not possess Formosa, it could have made sure that Formosa was permanently neutralized against the Chinese mainland.

The real facts in this complex struggle of naked power politics, the facts clear to all Western governments and evidently to Russia, have been misunderstood or have been totally disregarded in Peiping.

The real facts are that the United States has completely altered its strategy in Asia; that Chiang, formally "unleashed" against China by the Eisenhower government in 1952, was released by the recent treaty between Washington and Formosa; that the United States thereby abandoned any thought of attacking China or attempt-

Line Drawn Down Middle

In other words, a line of power would have been drawn down the middle of the Formosa Strait as a line has long been drawn through the middle of Europe.

Up to last week the west believed that Russia was prepared to accept this modus vivendi as a pretty satisfactory bargain in the process of co-existence.

It was supposed in Washington and London that Moscow would urge Peiping to attend the United Nations and negotiate a settlement along these general lines. It was supposed that Russia could control China's foreign policy in a matter involving a risk of a large-

It was also supposed that the United States, in abandoning the Tachien Islands and actually confining Chiang's power to Formosa, had gone far enough to satisfy any realistic Chinese government.

But to the amazement and consternation of the west, perhaps to consternation of Russia as well, China did not react in that fashion. It refused to come to the United Nations and bargain. It denounced both Britain and the United States. It proposed to recapture Formosa despite the presence of the American Seventh Fleet and overwhelming American air power.

What had happened in Peiping is the central mystery of this whole episode. It was clear, however, that Peiping had misunderstood the real attitude of the United States, the eager will for a settlement even if it involved a retreat not only from the Tachien Islands but from the other inshore islands.

Disregarded Moscow Advice?

It seemed clear also that Peiping had disregarded the advice of Moscow. The most alarming conclusion emerging from these events, therefore, was that China no longer takes orders from Moscow, has decided to operate on the Pacific as it pleases and careless of consequences, is quite capable of setting Asia on fire.

Across the world Britain was behaving in a very different fashion. Britain has made no secret of its opposition to some vital aspects of American power in Asia. It has never favored the Chiang government of Formosa. It has never believed that the west could repeat the Chinese Communist revolution.

By recognizing the Peiping

No Wish to Fight for Chiang

Moreover, it was an act of high political courage by the Churchill government, because it was strongly opposed by the Labor Party and, as a recent public opinion poll showed, was objectionable to at least half of the British people who have no wish to fight for Chiang in Formosa.

When Sir Anthony Eden indicated that Britain would stand by the United States in Formosa, if China advanced beyond the inshore islands, he was making a commitment as large and momentous as the commitment to deploy British troops permanently in western Europe.

Britain had not taken this step because it respected the British, U.S. Alliance First

Secondly and decisively, Britain knows that, however important affairs may be along the Chinese coast, they must remain subordinate to the maintenance of the British-American alliance. For if it were endangered by some quarrel of detail—if the west were split on the rock of Formosa then international communism would have won its greatest victory to date and every defensive measure against it would have been undermined, perhaps fatally.

Thus in the sudden crisis created by China's refusal to attend the United Nations Britain

Police Seek

Fourth Suspect

In $6,413 Theft

City police today were searching for a fourth suspect in connection with the $6,413 arm hold-up of two Victoria Press employees Monday. A search of Beacon Hill Park on Tuesday failed to reveal any clues.

Police said today they were unable to locate any new clues when detectives and constables conducted an intensive search of the route believed taken by one of two cars used in the get-away.

Miss Terry French, Times social reporter, followed the bandits, who split up and switched cars at Arena Way. She then followed one car until it went into Beacon Hill Park near South Park School. She entered another road and saw the car disappear down Lover's Lane.

Three suspects placed in an identification line-up for the second time on Tuesday were released Tuesday morning when witnesses failed to make "positive identification" in a line-up Monday morning.

Chief John Blackstock said today that no part of the loot has yet been recovered. Police are still holding the two cars used by the thugs.

Nazi Barracks Shield

Fugitives From Reds

By THOMAS WEYR

United Press Staff Correspondent

GLASENBACH, Austria (UP)—Chintz curtains, potted geraniums and children's toys now brighten the infamous Glasenbach barracks where Adolf Hitler's SS killers once trained for terror.

The Glasenbach camp is the newest home established in Austria by the United States Escape Program (USEP) for families that have emerged from behind the Iron Curtain.

Nearly 300 men, women and children from eight Red nations live in barracks rebuilt to resemble normal private homes. Their quarters are separate units complete with cooking and washing facilities.

There is a kindergarten, library, central laundry, recreation room and shops where refugees learn skills to fit them for a new life—carpentry, cobbling, tool making, plumbing, cooking and more than half a dozen others.

Since 1948, more than 100,000 East Europeans have braved Communist secret police, barbed wire, bullets and land mines to escape to the West. They continue to slip through the Iron Curtain "at a rate of several hundred a month," officials say.

RESETTLEMENT PLAN USEP was set up two years ago to help them bridge the gap between tyranny and freedom. The camp here at Glasenbach, where the Germans built elaborate barracks during the Second World War to house SS "elite" troops, is a typical USEP "leak."

12 single-story wooden buildings nestled at the foot of Salzburg's hills. The refugee families are free to decorate their lodgings as they wish, and it is hard to realize when you step into one of the homey apartments that the buildings once echoed with the clank of guns and the clatter of Nazi boots.

The chief objective of the centre of rehabilitation and resettlement of the escapees in one of the free European nations or overseas. USEP and the Austrian government provide for the bare daily needs of the inmates, while at the same time training them to earn a western living. With the help of the YMCA, the International Social Services, the World Council of Churches, and other voluntary agencies, the refugees are given a chance to learn new languages and take their pick of trades.

Newly arrived refugees must be processed by American intelligence officers before becoming eligible for residence in Glasenbach.

Once arrived at the camp, the new inmate is assigned a room in one of the large barracks. Married couples usually receive a room for themselves.achelors share their living quarters with two or three others.

Stan Milus, USEP's assistant director in Austria, estimates that about half of the 6,000 escapees now in Austria will emigrate to overseas nations. The other half will be absorbed by the Austrian economy to find new homes in other west European countries.

The program, with $1,300,000 at its disposal yearly, not only pays the basic substance of the refugees and their passage overseas but also will assist them in getting started in Austria.

He cited the case of an elderly woman for whom USEP bought a grand piano so she could teach music. Another refugee was given 4,000 schillings ($150) so he could purchase a plot of land he needed to set himself up in business.

The program also will pay the $50 necessary for Austrian citizenship papers and assist escapees in finding suitable housing.

Old people are sent to homes for the aged in various European countries. USEP pays the homes $1,000 apiece for their maintenance.

There's little chance of the Communists slipping a spy into Glasenbach, Milus said. Even if a Communist agent got past the intelligence screening, the fiercely anti-Communist inmates would soon find out his leanings and report him to camp authorities, he added.

Common Life of Old

Egypt To Be Dug Up

By GERALD ARATHOON

UP Staff Correspondent

CAIRO (UP)—Archaeologists of the University of Pennsylvania will set out on an expedition at Mit Rahina, on the site of ancient Memphis, early in 1955 to search for little-known facts in the life of the ancient Egyptian conqueror.

The expedition will be a joint undertaking by the university's museum and the Egyptian department of antiquities.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dimick of 1929 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D.C., came to Cairo last summer in advance of the university group, which is expected to arrive here next February.

Dimick, a research associate with the university, said the expedition will be under the direction of Dr. Rudolph Anthes, curator of the Egyptian department of the university's museum.

Dimick credited the present Egyptian regime for choosing "selected outside interests" to co-operate with Egyptian archaeologists in tackling the mountainous amount of research that remains to be done here.

UNIVERSITY TO PAY Dimick said the government evinced keen interest in the plans for the forthcoming expedition and showed "enormous good-will" in extending to the museum all the privileges needed for the work at Mit Rahina.

The associate Egyptologists and scientific personnel for the expedition will be supplied by the university and the department of antiquities.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

A five-week training course in the principles and methods of running a scout troop was started Monday by 22 scoutmasters. Scouters George Bennett, Robert Milks and the writer of these notes are the instructors. Martin Dawson, assistant commissioner, welcomed the trainees to the course which is being held in district headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street.

The Akela Council held a part of their recent meeting at the Victoria Public Library, receiving instruction on how to take care of books and help their cubs select the right type of reading.

The Brentwood Group held a father and son dinner at which guest speakers were Rev. George Oliver and Alexander Cathcart, a former district commissioner from Saskatoon. The speakers urged parents to take an active part in the training of their boys in the "Game of Scouting."

Mt. Talmie Group. Collectors' badges were earned by Brian Carmichael, Ian Hatfield, Garry Easton, Michael Dohnn of "B" Pack and 1st Stars were presented to Brian Carmichael and Michael Dohnn.

In "C" Pack, Teddy Greenwood, Teddy Jennings and Stephen Lane were invested as Wolf Cubs, teamplayers' badges going to David Silvri, and the toymakers' to Hector Birks.

During an observation hike the cubs of the Mt. Talmie group found a large number of magazines hidden in the bush. They turned them over to the Saanich police.

Parkdale Group. Troop Leader Bill Wansborough was presented with his Queen Scout badge, the top award a Boy Scout can earn.

Windward Park Group. "B" Pack. Householders' badges were presented to David Angus, Stafford Benning, Jim Galie, Pat Wastell, at a "special parents' night. This Cup pack has undertaken to raise $50 towards bringing a Scout to the world jamboree from Britain.

Belmont Group. "A" Pack. Paul Cremp and James Taylor were invested as Wolf Cubs. Stewart More and Lorne Bronne received their 1st Stars. "B" Pack. Bill Silveston and Dennis Swonnell took their promise as Wolf Cubs. Tommy Brayton received his Homecraft badge.

Third Victoria group. The committee made plans for B.P. week at which an open night will be held Wednesday, February 23, all Cubs, Scouts, Rovers, and parents being invited. Patrol Leader John Meikle, Scout John Addison went for their 24 journey staying out under canvas and cooking in the open.

At the Pack meeting Tommy Richards, Mel Prokuek and John Condon were presented with their team-players' badge. The artist badge went to Tommy Richards, Douglas Davie receiving his 3rd year service star, the 2nd year star going to David McIntosh. Peter Haegert received his 1st year star.

Colwood Group. The Scoutmaster, Jack Jahour, attended the pack meeting and spoke to the Cubs on the reason for them to go on to Scouts. Ronald Mills was invested as a Wolf Cub.

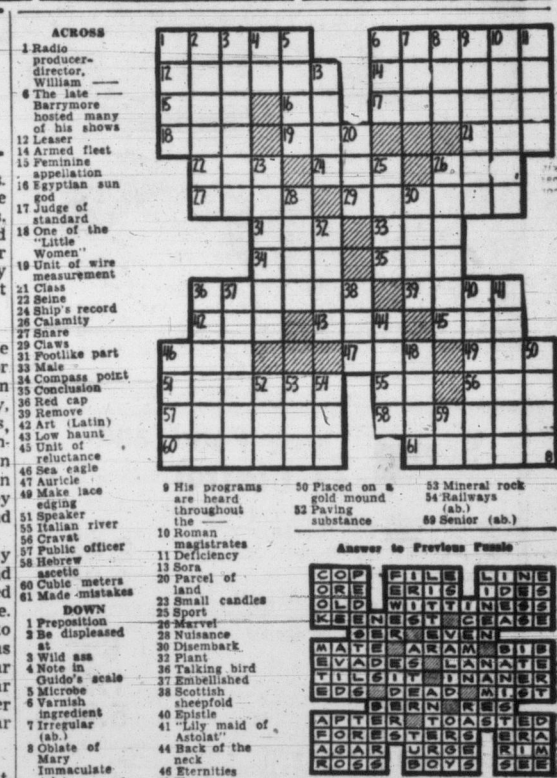

Parkdale "B" Pack. Michael Hyland, Brian Williams, Alfred Clatworthy made their promise as Wolf Cubs.

Duncan-Chemalau District. This district has come to the fore in raising funds to help bring Scouts from Britain to the 8th World Jamboree.

Ganges Group. Field Commissioner Jim Blain from the provincial council gave the scouts and Cubs a yarn at the school and held a meeting with the committee at Harbour House with Lieut.-Col. Desmond Crofton in the chair.

Comox District. A dinner was held for the Scouts of the district at which Commissioner Dick Farrington expressed his thanks to the many people who were coming forward to take on the job of leading Scouts and Cubs. The district president, Mr. H. Brool, extended thanks

BOARDING HOUSE

Court Inspects Properties To Check on Assessments

Court of revision made an on-the-spot check of properties of two appellants Tuesday before handing down final decisions on whether assessments would be reduced.

The last day of Victoria hearings saw the three-member board of referees depart before noon from City Hall council chambers for an inspection tour of B.C. Forest Products and two properties owned by John A. Worthington.

Forrest L. Shaw, Joseph Casey and W. L. Woodhouse comprise the board. Mr. Shaw is chairman.

Also pending were decisions on appeals of Brackman Kerr Milling Company, Georgia Properties, Sidney Roofing and three Famous Players theatres.

Judgment on all six had been reserved by the court when the cases were called last week.

Four appeals were granted by the court Tuesday. Original assessments were reduced due to clerical error or too-high assessment in the past. Included were two residential properties, a Standard Oil Garage and the Campbell Building.

Assessors had classed the latter as a steel frame construction where it was actually of cement and brick, which reduced the assessment $7,500.

The court refused to deal with an appeal by York Theatre which was filed after the appointed deadline.

Victoria 'Winter' Short-Lived—So Far

Linda, 5, and Sandra, 3, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lalonde, Island Highway were out on the lawn at 6.30 to play in snow this morning. Even so, they scarcely found enough of the cold-white stuff to throw around satisfactorily. About half-inch fell Tuesday night and early this morning in outlying areas, less in Greater Victoria. Clearing skies and sunshine today will continue, according to the weather forecast, with occasional clouds, low temperatures. (Times Photo.)

BASIS OF SCHOOL FORMULA

B.C. to Pay Wages Plus $3 Per Pupil

A cabinet order-in-council today made law a system of school grants which spell out the B.C. government's new school formula.

The order provides:

1. A school grant system which will pay the entire teacher wage bill up to a certain standard schedule, plus a $3 per pupil annual grant to cover other costs.

2. That the government will receive in return 10 mills from urban communities and 7 mills from rural areas, on each dollar of assessment value.

It means an automatic wage increase next year for teachers in some 30 of B.C.'s 80 school districts where wages are not up to the government schedule.

The new standard schedule, introduced by Education Minister Ray Williston, shows upward revisions in every classification of the old grant scale. The previous scale was based on teachers' wages in 1946.

If school districts want to pay more than the new wage scale, they will have to bear the excess costs.

Mr. Williston said the government will grant each school district the full amount shown on the scale, or the total of actual salaries if less than the listed amount.

MUST NEGOTIATE

In 30 districts teachers are receiving less than the amount shown on the new schedule. They must still negotiate with school boards for the amount below the new scale.

The scale boosts the grant

CBC Wage Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CIO-CCL), threatening a strike to enforce contract demands, today resumed deadlocked negotiations. The CBC was supported by the finding of a federal conciliation board. NABET employees have authorized their national executive to call a strike if a satisfactory settlement is not reached by Feb. 16.

Mother Saves Family

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A Vancouver woman saved her four children when fire struck their home early today in freezing temperatures. Mrs. Dorothy McInnes woke up smelling smoke and immediately roused the children, Coleen, 15; Carol, 12; Marilyn, 8, and Robert, 5.

COOL OFF, DON'T GRAB NEHRU ADVISES CHINA

LONDON (UP)—India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today pinned his hopes for peaceful solution of the Formosa crisis to an "informal approach," after the "excitement dies down." He also advised China against any attempt to grab Formosa by force.

Nehru, the key figure of side-street maneuvering here to find a formula to end the Formosa shooting, said he doubted Tuesday's dramatic government shifts in Moscow would alter the atmosphere or bring a change in Soviet foreign policy.

Until Tuesday Nehru had been reported concentrating on efforts to arrange a "Geneva-type" conference, outside the UN.

But diplomatic observers here said that possibility apparently went out the window along with topped Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov.

Rejection of UN Bid Mao's Major Blunder?

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(Editor, Victoria Daily Times)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Behind the chaotic surface of the crisis in Formosa stand two basic and extraordinary facts.

On the one hand, the Communist government of China is acting in obvious ignorance and probable stupidity.

On the other, the British government, backed by all or most of the Commonwealth, is acting with unequalled knowledge and ancient wisdom.

It may be said, indeed, that the issue of war or peace in Asia will hang on this contest between ignorant stupidity and informed knowledge.

Communist China was obviously winning a great diplomatic victory until a few days ago.

It had forced Chiang Kai-shek to agree to the evacuation of the Tachen Islands because the United States would not defend them. It had forced the United Nations to invite it to meet the Security Council and to recognize it.

In fact it not in name as a great power. Finally China was making highly satisfactory progress in the supreme Communist objective of dividing the free world alliance.

If Peiping had paused there, if it had agreed to confer with the United Nations Security Council on a cease-fire, it could have soon secured the other offshore islands without danger of a large-scale war.

AFL, CIO Become One Giant Union

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—A waterfront crowd awaiting the arrival of Princess Margaret here in "Little England" today was moved by police, some with nightsticks, as they pressed forward in an excess of enthusiasm.

As the crowd crushed against a low wall some women had their clothing torn. One woman lost her skirt.

One man, hopping up and down on the fringe of the crowd, hopped off the end of the dock and into the water 10 feet below. He was fished out to rejoin the celebration.

Order was quickly restored, and as the Princess stepped ashore she was greeted with a tumultuous cheer.

Ike's Friend Named Chief Of Red Army

Zhukov, Berlin Battle Hero, Impressed President in War

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi K. Zhukov, top Soviet military hero and a warm wartime acquaintance of President Eisenhower, was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union today.

Immediately after the announcement, the Supreme Soviet parliament was informed that Georgi M. Malenkov, who resigned Tuesday as premier, has been named a deputy premier and minister of power stations.

Both nominations were made by the new premier, Nikolai A. Bulganin, until Tuesday the defense minister. A marshal, Bulganin wore his army uniform at today's meeting of this momentous Supreme Soviet session.

Marshal Zhukov is mentioned in friendly way, many times in President Eisenhower's book, "Crusade in Europe."

The two generals met in Berlin at the end of the war and later exchanged governmental decorations in Germany. The president suggested then—and is believed to have repeated since—that his wartime friend might be more friendly to the United States although he is a "firm believer in the Communist concept."

"So far as the friendly association between Marshal Zhukov and myself was concerned, it continued to grow until the moment I left Europe in November, 1945," Mr. Eisenhower wrote in 1948. "That friendship was a personal and individual thing and unfortunately was not representative of the general attitude."

Bulganin, in his first speech as premier, pledged his government to work to expand the Soviet Union's heavy industry in order to build up armed might and raise the country's living standards.

The appointments of Malenkov and Zhukov were unanimously approved by a show of hands of the 1,300-member parliament's joint session.

Today's sessions spotlighted another outstanding war hero, Marshal van Konev, who headed the tribunal that condemned secret police chief L. P. Beria to death in December, 1953. In an address to the cheering parliament, he asserted that the U.S.S.R.'s armed forces have "all kinds of weapons for the complete defeat of aggressors."

Zhukov's appointment to the defense ministry is another step in a profound government shakeup which underscores the powerful influence of Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary—and boss—of the Communist party.

Zhukov has been a first deputy minister of defense. He has attained great prominence since the death of Stalin, after a period in virtual eclipse after the Second World War.

Known and Respected A glittering hero of Berlin, Zhukov is known and respected throughout the Soviet Union and his name is well known.

Ike Scoffs Molotov's H-Bomb Claim

LONDON (AP)—The new Kremlin regime suggested tonight that legislators of the countries of the world make personal appearances and even speeches in each other's parliaments as a way of easing international tension.

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today chuckled off Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's claim that Russia is the world's No. 1 H-bomb power.

But a few minutes later he was deadly serious when he declared that intelligent people ought to seek an understanding so that the world might be spared the horrors of nuclear war.

There's no proof of Molotov's H-bomb claim, the president said, adding that Soviet achievement of superiority over America in this field would be a rather remarkable feat if true.

The president also said the shakeup in the Soviet high command reflects internal dissatisfaction in Russia but will bring no change in basic United States policy aimed at achieving a lasting peace.

And, the president said, he does not believe the developments necessarily mean that Russia has launched on a calculated tougher policy toward the United States.

$350,000 Award

NEW YORK (AP)—A Supreme Court jury today awarded $350,000 to Mrs. Clara Levine, 56, struck and seriously injured by a police car in 1953. Mrs. Levine, a widow, has been a hospital patient virtually all the time since then and was taken into court on a stretcher.

Committees Representing 15 Million Agree on Pact

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

MIAMI BEACH—AFL and CIO leaders "proudly and unanimously" agreed today to carry out a historic merger of the two labor organizations.

This afternoon AFL president George Meany and CIO head Walter Reuther signed the merger agreement to "realize a long-cherished goal."

Meany predicted the merger would be approved by conventions of both bodies and then by a joint convention before the end of the year.

"We will go into 1956 with a united labor movement," Meany said.

COMMITTEES ACT

The agreement to end the 20-year-old split within organized labor was reached by two three-member sub-committees representing the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The merger pact is due to be ratified this afternoon by 10-member committees of each organization.

The AFL's executive council will pass on the amalgamation at a meeting here Thursday.

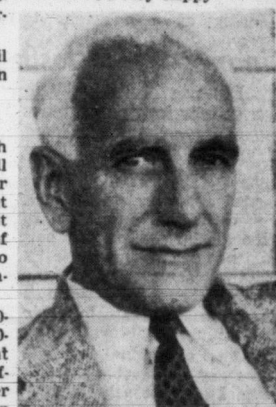

APPROVAL CERTAIN

Ratifying conventions of both the AFL and CIO unions will be required to put the merger into effect, but the agreement reached by AFL president George Meany and CIO chief Walter Reuther seems sure to win approval of their organizations.

Welding of the 10,000,000-member AFL and the 5,000,000-member CIO would represent culmination of two years of effort by Meany and Reuther since they became top men in their respective groups in late 1952.

ED HAW, CCL
"... very happy"

PERCY RAYMENT, TLC
"... a good move"

Local Labor Leaders Jubilant Over Move

By AB KENT

Times Labor Reporter

Merger of the multi-million membership American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations announced in Miami, Florida, today was greeted enthusiastically by Victoria labor leaders.

Secretary of Victoria Labor Council Ed Haw (also financial secretary of IWA local 1-118) commented:

"Speaking as a member of Victoria Labor Council, I am very happy to see the merger of the CIO and AFL."

His remark was echoed by A. Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

GOOD MOVE

"Undoubtedly a good move," he said, but declined further comment until he heard further details.

"We've all been looking forward to this day," said Vic Midgley, local representative of the carpenters' international union.

Most spokesmen agreed that the two Canadian labor movements affiliated with AFL and CIO—namely, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and Canadian Congress of Labor—would soon make a similar move to unite.

NO ALTERNATIVE "The TLC and CCL have no alternative but to follow suit," Bob Milliken, teamsters' union business agent said.

"I think it is the finest thing in the world," Mr. Milliken went on. "It will strengthen the hand of the labor movement 100 per cent."

A basic advantage pointed out by teamsters' agent was abolition of "raiding" between the rival unions to increase membership.

He added that the problems involved in the merger are "terrible," a major one being agreement on jurisdictional powers of the two huge organizations.

ON RECORD The CIO is definitely industrial in character, while the AFL is composed largely of craftsmen.

Both TLC unions and CCL affiliates are on record as being in favor of working toward unity of their 1,000,000 total membership, including those affiliated with AFL and CIO.

Jack MacKenzie, president of local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America (CCL-CIO), said:

"We are glad to see it beginning to take shape. Organized labor will now be in a position to make a concerted effort toward improving labor conditions in North America."

"However," he said, "there are a considerable number of problems to be worked out."

NOT BINDING Mr. Haw mentioned the IWA International convention of 1953 endorsed organic unity of CIO and AFL, but this did not bind Canadian districts of the IWA.

Charles Peck, electrical workers' business agent, and former president of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, said: "We have had resolutions from the TLC suggesting merger for years. We hope the TLC and CCL can get together now."

He mentioned the chief difficulty of jurisdiction which would have to be resolved. Mr. Midgley said international unions would be required to ratify the merger, and "if they don't agree with the policy, then they will have to get out, I guess."

"Merger will be a benefit to all the workers, giving us greater bargaining strength," he said.

Pinay Gives Up Cabinet Try

PARIS (AP)—A well-informed source said today that Antoine Pinay had given up his effort to form a new government to succeed Pierre Mendes-France.

The information came on the heels of a decision of the Catholic Movement Republicain Populaire to refuse to take any part in a government headed by Pinay. Pinay is a conservative while the Catholic republican party is a left-of-centre party competing with the Socialists for leftist votes in the country.

Ike's Friend Named Chief Of Red Army

Zhukov, Berlin Battle Hero, Impressed President in War

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi K. Zhukov, top Soviet military hero and a warm wartime acquaintance of President Eisenhower, was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union today.

Immediately after the announcement, the Supreme Soviet parliament was informed that Georgi M. Malenkov, who resigned Tuesday as premier, has been named a deputy premier and minister of power stations.

Both nominations were made by the new premier, Nikolai A. Bulganin, until Tuesday the defense minister. A marshal, Bulganin wore his army uniform at today's meeting of this momentous Supreme Soviet session.

Marshal Zhukov is mentioned in friendly way, many times in President Eisenhower's book, "Crusade in Europe."

The two generals met in Berlin at the end of the war and later exchanged governmental decorations in Germany. The president suggested then—and is believed to have repeated since—that his wartime friend might be more friendly to the United States although he is a "firm believer in the Communist concept."

"So far as the friendly association between Marshal Zhukov and myself was concerned, it continued to grow until the moment I left Europe in November, 1945," Mr. Eisenhower wrote in 1948. "That friendship was a personal and individual (Continued on Page 26)"

BASIS OF SCHOOL FORMULA

B.C. to Pay Wages Plus $3 Per Pupil

A cabinet order-in-council today made law a system of school grants which spell out the B.C. government's new school formula.

The order provides:
1. A school grant system which will pay the entire teacher wage bill up to a certain standard schedule; plus a $3 per pupil annual grant to cover other costs.

2. That the government will receive in return 10 mills from urban communities and 7 mills from rural areas, on each dollar of assessment value. These amounts will presumably be deducted from the total school grant paid to each municipality.

It means an automatic wage increase next year for teachers in some 30 of B.C.'s 80 school districts where wages are not up to the government schedule.

The new standard schedule, introduced by Education Minister Ray Williston, shows upward revisions in every classification of the old grant scale. The previous scale was based on teachers' wages in 1946.

If school districts want to pay more than the new wage scale, they will have to bear the excess costs.

Mr. Williston said the government will grant each school district the full amount shown on the scale, or the total of actual salaries if less than the listed amount.

MUST NEGOTIATE
In 30 districts teachers are receiving less than the amount shown on the new schedule. They must still negotiate with school boards for the amount below the new scale.

Meany Likely Chief Of Giant New Union

(From AP and UP Dispatches)
MIAMI BEACH—AFL and CIO leaders "proudly and unanimously" agreed today to carry out a historic merger of the two labor organizations.

This afternoon AFL president George Meany and CIO head Walter Reuther signed the merger agreement to "realize a long-cherished goal."

Under the terms of the agreement, the two top officers would come from the AFL. Members of the 20-man joint unity committee conceded the presidency to Meany.

Meany predicted the merger would be approved by conventions of both bodies and then by a joint convention before the end of the year.

"We will go into 1956 with a united labor movement," Meany said.

COMMITTEES ACT
The agreement to end the 20-year-old split within organized labor was reached by three member sub-committees representing the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The AFL's executive council will pass on the amalgamation at a meeting here Thursday.

APPROVAL CERTAIN
Ratifying conventions of both the AFL and CIO unions will be required to put the merger into effect, but the agreement reached by AFL president George Meany and CIO chief Walter Reuther seems sure to win approval of their organizations.

Welding of the 10,000,000-member AFL and the 5,000,000-member CIO would represent culmination of two years of effort by Meany and Reuther since they became top men in their respective groups in late 1952.

Both TLC unions and CCL affiliates are on record as being in favor of working toward unity of their 1,000,000 total membership, including those affiliated with AFL and CIO.

Jack MacKenzie, president of local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America (CCL-CIO), said:

"We are glad to see it beginning to take shape. Organized labor will now be in a position to make a concerted effort toward improving labor conditions in North America."

"However," he said, "there are a considerable number of problems to be worked out."

NOT BINDING
Mr. Haw mentioned the IWA international convention of 1953 endorsed organic unity of CIO and AFL, but this did not bind Canadian districts of the IWA.

Charles Peck, electrical workers' business agent, and former president of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, said: "We have had resolutions from the TLC suggesting merger for years. We hope the TLC and CCL can get together now."

He mentioned the chief difficulty of jurisdiction which would have to be resolved.

Mr. Midgley said international unions would be required to ratify the merger, and "if they don't agree with the policy, then they will have to get out, membership."

He added that the problems I guess.

GEORGE MEANY ... new labor czar?
